TURKS ATTACK U. S. NAVAL BOAT

Washington Confirms Firing on Tennessee's Men

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Official dispatches to the Navy Department today show that the launch of the U. S. armored cruiser Tennessee was fired upon while proceeding from Vourlah to Smyrna, Asia Minor. Extreme anxiety is entertained for the safety of the consulate at the latter place. Secretary of the Navy Daniels issued the following statement:

Captain B. C. Decker, in command of the Tennessee, wired Secretary Daniels this morning that while proceeding from Vourlah to Smyrna to make official calls his boat was fired at. The consul is anxious for the safety of consulate. Tennessee proceeded to and left Vourlah at request of ambassador and is now anchored in the harbor of Chios, from which Captain Decker's telegram was sent. Secretary Daniels wired for fuller information.

U. S. Ambassador to Turkey Was Born in Germany

Underwood and Underwood.

HENRY MORGENTHAU.

Henry Morgenthau was born in Mannheim, Germany, April 26, 1856, the son of Lazarus and Babette Morgenthau. Coming to this country in 1865, he entered the public schools of New York city and in 1877 received the degree of Bachelor of Laws from Columbia.

He married Josephine Sykes of New York, May 15, 1883. He was a member of the law firm of Lachman, Morgenthau & Goldsmith, New York, from 1879 to 1899; president of the Central Realty Bond & Trust Company from 1899 to 1905; president of the Henry Morgenthau Company from 1905 to 1913. He is now a director of the Underwood Typewriter Company and president of the Herald Square Realty Company.

President Wilson recognized his work as chairman of the finance committee of the National Democratic Committee during the 1912 campaign by appointing him Ambassador to Turkey early this year.

Ambassador Morgenthau is also president of the Free Synagogue, Bronx House and Mount Sinai hospital, and is a member of several prominent New York clubs, including Lotos, Harmonie, Century and Country. His New York city home is at No. 30 West Seventy-second street.

Stray Mexican Bullet Hits U. S. Official

NACO, Ariz., Nov. 18.—The Villa troops commanded by General Maytorena began a general attack upon the Carranza troops in Naco, Sonora, at dawn today. It opened with a lively artillery fire which was soon followed by rifle and machine gun fire from all sides.

H. H. Reynolds, a United States custom inspector, was shot through the leg by a bullet that was fired across the border and entered the hotel on the American side. Three hours after the Villa attack began the Carranza artillery compelled the assailants to withdraw.

'Give a Basket' Christmas Plan Spreading Fast

The AMERICAN'S "Give a Basket" slogan is ringing through Greater Boston.

The up-to-date cry now is "Give a basket."

The AMERICAN is receiving commendations for this plan to succor the needy at the coming Christmas. The scheme is for a grand, united Christmas, in which the poor shall be remembered, and made to feel that their more fortunate fellow beings are remembering them.

Mayor Curley says:

War-time charity giving by citizens of Boston should first be extended to our own unfortunates.

That the Boston AMEDICAN is doing a much-needed work in its "Give-a-Basket" campaign for the poor of Boston is beyond the slightest question.

Every citizen whose means will permit is under a deep moral obligation to help make this great movement a sweeping success by himself contributing the money needed to buy at least one of these Christmas dinner baskets to be given to some needy family, with a few cents added to buy some toy that also wil bring Christmas cheer into the life of some now unhappy child.

If the good people of Boston could read the heart-breaking letters that have come to my office, praying for help, since it was announced that I intended to give two hundred Thanksgiving dinner baskets away, they would realize full wel the exigencies of the situation.

Had I the means to do so, I readily could distribute 5,000 such dinner baskets among the needy out-of-works of Boston today, without in any way over-supplying the needy poor.

This being true of today, with Winter scarcely here, in the name o fhumanity I urge the more fortunate among us to consider what will be the fearful condition obtaining when Christmas comes—a full month from now.

Give to the needy millions of Europe, if you can, BUT FIRST HELP THE NEEDY POOR OF BOSTON, your home city, is my advice to all.

And what is equaly important, give early, that the AMERICAN'S plan for Christmas relief in Boston may be carried out in season to insure its city-wide success.

J. Otis Wardwell, prominent Boston lawyer, writes:

Christmas Editor:

Permit me to express my appreciation of your splendid p lan of helping the poor in a aterial way at this coming Christmastide. Your "Give a basket" campaign strikes the right note. Charity, they say, begins at home, and I am glad to help a praiseworthy step in this direction.

Mr. Hearst is to be complimented on his efforts to bring home to us, at this time when we are remembering the war sufferers abroad so generously and deservedly, the need of helping our own poor.

I enclose y check for $50.

Former Governor John D. Long of Hingham, secretary of the navy under President McKinley, lends his endorsement to the AMERICAN'S "Give a Christmas Basket" movement, with this expression:

I heartily approve of a movement to relieve suffering and gladden Christmastime.

Samuel J. Elder, a member of The Hague Peace Tribunal and

NEW LINK IN MAINE CASE

HOULTON, Me., Nov.e 18. — The sensational mystery of the death of Mildred Sullivan—"Prettiest Girl in Aroostook"—received a startling turn today when it became known that a wealthy Houlton man is expected to be arrested in the case; and when it was rumored that he, not Ambrose Bridge, was responsible for circumstances that led to Mildred Sullivan's tragic end.

This disclosure held public interest, even over the arrival of Ruth Deveney of Cambridge, to testify before the Grand Jury as to conversations she overheard between Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, now accused of murder, Alice Pellitier, alleged accessory, and Kate Michard, when they were in Boston. She was brought to Houlton by Detective Sergeant Irwin of the East Dedham street station there.

Miss Deveney will tell, it is understood, how Alice Pellitier and Kate Michaud, the latter under the name of Katherine French, visited her while they were in Boston. It is said she heard them talking together in French, but that she never heard any mention of Mildred Sullivan.

SHIELDED BY MONEY.

The wealthy new suspect in the case, it is reported, hired Bridges to shield himself, and it is likewise stated that his funds financed the intrigue which resulted in the girl's tragic death and burial.

Bridge, the quiet and easy-going young lineman, is reported to have assumed responsibility for a price, and to have confided all save this important feature of the conspiracy to the county authorities. Then Katherine Michaud made a clean breast of everything.

According to the latest versions of the case, which is hourly becoming more grave and complicated, Bridge and Katie Michaud were merely agents of the man whose interests were too large to be involved.

Bridge has told the authorities that Dr. Dudley told him Mildred was in need of money and that he would take it to her if Bridge got it, although Mildred was then dead.

GAVE THIRD DEGREE.

It is reported by the defence that the third degree was worked on Dr. Dudley and Perley Pellitier recently at the county jail, but that the doctor was not caught napping. The defence is indignant over the manner adopted by the State.

County Attorney Archibald admitted today that Katherine Michaud, star witness for the State, and a codefendant, would testify before the Grand Jury. So will Ambrose Bridge, the dead girl's sweetheart. Miss Michaud will be shown clemency. Many would not be surprised to see her go free.

Sympathizers of Dr. Dudley say that even if the Presque Isle physician did what the prosecution claims, he would at most be guilty only of manslaughter. The majority of them predict his exoneration.

The grand jurors listened today to medical evidence of a startling nature.

They heard the case in sequence, beginning with the invitations extended to Millie Sullivan by Ambrose Bridge to attend the Presque Isle

MILITIA IN HUNT FOR WOMAN

MARLBORO, Nov. 18.—Mrs. Walter C. Springer, one of the best known women in Marlboro, whose wealthy husband is superintendent of the Curtis Shoe Factory, has disappeared, and the fire department, police, Company F of the Sixth Regiment and members of the Elks to which her husband belongs are co-operating in the search for her.

Mrs. Springer left her home at No. 146 Church street last night to go to the home of Mrs. Joseph H. McManus on Warren avenue—and has not since been seen.

Mr. Springer shortly became alarmed over his wife's absence and telephoned to Mrs. McManus, and then to neighbors and to relatives in surrounding towns.

When he could get no word he called upon the police, and volunteer searching parties spent the night going over the neighborhood.

Before Mrs. Springer left home she put on her rubbers, with some remark about "water," and Mr. Springer, recalling this, led a search of the shore of Fort Meadow Pond, but no trace of the woman was found there.

This morning Assistant Chief John Kane led a detachment of firemen in the search, and Captain A. S. Payne called out Company F of the militia.

Mrs. Springer is a member of the Marlboro Woman's Club. She and Mr. Springer have no children. She is thirty-five, five feet six inches tall, weighs 140 pounds, and wore a black dress and coat trimmed with fur when she left home. She wore no hat.

Colburn of Dorchester, $5.

Art Treasures in Boston for Safety

A genuine Rembrandt, representing a Dutch landscape, and the portrait by Zorn of a Chicago society belle, reached Boston today on the steamship Zamora. They belong to Eric Winberg, an art collector of Stockholm and were brought over by Wilhelm Salchow, who believes America is now the only safe place for art treasures.

Salchow was suspected of being a spy and closely watched for five days when the steamer put in for coal at Shields, England.

Recall Election In Salem Dec. 29

SALEM, Nov. 18.—The city council today voted December 29 as the date for the special mayoralty recall election at which Mayor Hurley will have to go before the voters on his record in office. This will bring the preliminary election on the recall on December 8, which will also be the date for the regular city election. At this election two members of the City Council and two members of the School Committee will be elected.

"The Story of Mauki"

In Next Sunday's Boston Sunday American

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Secretary Daniels in discussing the firing on the United States cruiser Tennessee stated that the Navy Department still is in doubt as to whether the cruiser Tennessee or her launch was fired on. He pointed out that the cablegram received from Captain Decker reads "Boat was fired at," which is susceptible of two interpretations although he regarded as unlikely that a cruiser would attempt to enter a closed port and particularly one which has such a shallow roadstead as Smyrna. He added:

"If the shot merely were fired across the bow of either, it might have been intended as an official salute."

The secretary also pointed out that the port of Smyrna is closed, and that new conditions have arisen which do not make the firing across the bow of a foreign ship a hostile act. He cited the fact that an identical situation arose at Guantanamo during the Spanish war when the United States declared that port closed and fired across the bows of a foreign merchantman without in any way intending a hostile act.

WAIT WORD FROM ENVOY.

Until further advices are received from Ambassador Morganthau or from Captain Decker of the Tennessee, the Navy Department will take no action. Communication with Constantinople is now extremely irregular, and Acting Secretary of State Lansing stated today that he had not heard from Ambassador Morganthau for a number of days.

The most surprising feature in Captain Decker's despatch, State Department officials say, is his statement that the safety of the consulate a Smyrna is in question. No word of its danger had been received at the department.

SOLID SHOTS AT CRUISER'S LAUNCH.

CHIO, Aegean Sea, Nov. 18.—The United States armored cruiser Tennessee arrived in this port today. It is stated that Monday, while the captain of the Tennessee was in the ship's launch, which was flying the American flag, on his way to pay the customary visits on the Turkish officials at Smyrna, three solid shots were fired on the boat by the forts.

The American Ambassador, Henry Morgenthau, without investigating the incident, it is said, immediately ordered the Tennessee from Turkish waters, at the request of the Turkish officials.

The United States armored cruiser Tennessee, and her nine hundred odd of American sailors, are safe at Chios, an island off Smyrna according to dispatches from Washington today.

News Agency reports were that the Tennessee's launch, sent into Smyrna Bay to arrange for the entrance of the cruiser, had been fired on by the Turkish forts, and that Captain Decker of the cruiser had notified the Turks that his instructions were to enter the bay and that he intended to do so.

The Washington dispatch today reads:

"A dispatch from Captain Decker of the armored cruiser Tennessee, received today, reports the arrival of that vessel at Chios at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The dispatch makes no mention of the launch of that cruiser being fired upon by Turkish forts, as reported by a British news agency."

The original dispatch said:

"A launch from the United States cruiser Tennessee, which was entering the Gulf of Smyrna to arrange for the cruiser to come into the harbor, was fired upon by the forts and compelled to return to the Tennessee.

"The commander of the Tennessee informed the Vali that

FOSTER COATES DEAD; LONG ON HEARST STAFF

Foster Coates is dead.

He was the first editor of the Boston AMERICAN and he was a great newspaper man.

And he was more than that. He was a maker of newspaper men.

No worker in the field of journalism came under his influence without becoming a better worker and a wiser worker.

And above all, he was a good friend.

In Boston and in New York, in San Francisco and in Los Angeles, in Chicago and in Atlanta, every man who labored under him admired and loved him.

Foster Coates, a newspaper man known in two continents and a man whose life is an inspiring record of achievement in his chosen field, is dead in Atlanta, Georgia.

Mr. Coates was at the time of his death president of Mr. Hearst's Atlanta Georgian. At several different times in recent years he has been in charge of the Boston AMERICAN. He was the AMERICAN'S first managing editor.

His death was sudden, the result of an attack of apoplexy. He died in the Georgian Terrace Hotel at Atlanta, his wife at his side.

Foster Coates "started at the bottom" as an office boy on the old New York Commercial Advertiser. When eighteen years old his ability had so marked him that he was offered a place on the New York Express, and he became city editor of that paper while still in his teens. When he was twenty-one he was made managing editor of the Mail and Express under Cyrus W. Field.

It was while Mr. Coates was in charge of the Mail and Express that he scored a success that made his nationally famous. It was at the time of the Charleston, S. C., earthquake. With the tremendous energy and the remarkable ingenuity that always characterized him, he set to work getting the details of that disaster while the wires were all down, and was so successful that he published a fairly complete account some hours before any other paper had the facts.

SCORED BRILLIANT EXCLUSIVES.

In March, 1892, Mr. Coats left his place on the Mail and Express, and became news editor of the Press. A year later he went back to the New York Commercial Advertiser, where he had started as an office boy years before, as managing editor. When Colonel John A. Cockerell retired in 1894, Mr. Coates became editor in chief of the oCmmercial Advertiser and the Morning Advertiser, and there remained till he went to Mr. Pulitzer's New York World. He served as managing editor there till 1900 when he entered the employ of Mr. Hearst.

He has been in Mr. Hearst's organization since 1900, holding in that time positions of responsibility on several of Mr. Hearst's papers. When the Atlanta Georgian came into Mr. Hearst's organization, Mr. Coates took charge of that paper, and except for a short time when he was in charge of the Boston AMERICAN, has been in Atlanta ever since.

Two of Mr. Coates' achievements besides the Charleston earthquake 'beat' are set down in newspaper history. One was in connection with the death of Queen Victoria when he beat all New York by several hours. The other was at the time of the assassination of President McKinley when Mr. Coates put a full story of the assassination "on the street" before the other New York papers had more than bulletins.

LOVED BY ASSOCIATES.

But Mr. Coates' great achievements, perhaps, were not the most widely known. In the hearts of the men who have been associated with him even remotely, there is an enduring tribute to his memory.

Foster Coates was a small man physically, but in his carriage, in the alert poise of his head and in the steady—usually smiling—eyes, there was an immense virility and strength. He was ordinarily low-voiced, unexcitable, calm in the greatest stresses.

In the office of the AMERICAN his friends extended from publisher down to the newest office boy. It was no unusual thing, in a time when news was "slack," to see him deeply absorbed in talk with one of the office boys.

Ordinarily he strolled about the city room in his shirt sleeves, cuffs turned back, hands buried deep in his trousers pockets, his eyes missing nothing of what went on.

When news "broke," Foster Coates took command with a word or two, supervised, was ever ready with praise for achievement. Failure rarely drew a word of blame. If a man made a bad mistake Mr. Coates kept still about it. If the mistake was a trivial one, Mr. Coates was apt to call down the heavens on the offender—with a twinkle in his eye.

One of the men in the office remembers an occasion when Mr. Coates came to him to say: "Say, F—— I'm afraid I spoke a little crossly to you a minute ago. Don't misunderstand me."

The man was amazed. "Why—I didn't notice that you said anything," he protested.

And Mr. Coates nodded characteristically and replied.

"That's good. I've wanted and I've always tried to give every one a square deal, all my life."

That comes pretty near being Foster Coates' gospel. He was quick with praise, slow with blame; a man of vivid speech; a man whose lightest word was listened to with attention. He could talk familiarly of Rome, Paris, Vienna—all the capitals of Europe. And he knew his United States as few knew it.

A splendid figure of American journalism passed with Foster Coates.

Billie Burke Ousts Senator from Car

QUINCY, Ill., Nov. 18.—Billie Burke, leading woman in "Jerry," ordered a train conductor to have Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman leave her private car. The Senator was on his way here to a Republican jollification.

Senator Sherman hastily entered the rear coach of the train at Springfield and proceeded to read some mail. Directly across the aisle sat an attractive young woman, who soon called the conductor and that official approached the Senator.

"What are you doing in this car?" asked the trainman.

"Why, I have a ticket for Quincy," Senator Sherman replied, "and will pay the extra for riding in the Pullman."

"Nothing doing; get out of here as quick as you entered. This is Billie Burke's private car."

The Senator complied.

King of Jerusalem Title for Albert

By C. F. BERTELLI.

PARIS, Nov. 18.—I am informed by a high diplomat of a proposal afoot to confer on the King of Belgium the title of King of Jerusalem after the war as the only fitting reward for his great personal bravery in leading his army under fire. This means divesting the Emperor of Austria of his title, which has been an appendage of the Kings of Hungary since 1290.

When the allied statesmen remake the map of Europe and Asia after the war they are expected to declare the Emperor Franz Josef unworthy of the historical kingship of Jerusalem.

KRUPP AGENT FREE TO MOVE ABOUT LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Friedrich von Buelow, brother of Prince von Buelow, former Chancellor of Germany, an agent of the Krupp party, is free in London, a fact which has been commented on in and outside of Parliament. Buelow explains that he is on parole. He said today: "My movements are comparatively unmolested now. Ten hours after war was declared I was arrested. I was held in a police station forty-eight hours. My house was searched from top to bottom. Of course, no incriminating documents were found, and I was released after I had given my word of honor that I would do nothing to endanger the safety of the British empire.

"The authorities have convinced themselves that I am a gentleman and a man of honor, and as such would never violate my parole, so I have been treated with the utmost kindness.

"It is impossible for me to make any comment on the manner in which Germans have been treated in England for fear that I might draw attention to my own case. I am in a perilous position and any publicity would do me great harm. I have made many requests to be allowed to go to America, and the American Embassy has done everything possible to assist me, but these requests have been refused and, although I am allowed considerable liberty.

NEWHALL AND COGGSWELL WIN LYNN PRIMARY

Mayor Newhall won his renomination easily in the Lynn primaries, but John H. Coggswell sprung a surprise on many by beating former Mayor Connery for second place and a position on the ballot. The vote for Mayor was: Newhall, 5,154; Coggswell, 2,727; Connery, 2,381; Former-Senator William R. Salter, 1,188; Captain A. J. Hoitt, 685; Dr. Charles D. S. Lovell, 446; John R. Wallace, 171; William A. Marks, 92.

William M. Blakeley received 1,721 votes as mayoralty candidate in Malden, and Owen P. Doonan was next highest, with 1,120 votes.

The Salem City Council at a special meeting today will select December 29 as the date for the mayoralty recall election, at which Mayor Hurley will have to go before the voters on his record in office.

This will bring the preliminary election on the recall December 8, which will be also the date for the regular city election, at which two members of the City Council and two members of the School Committee will be elected. At the preliminary election yesterday Charles H. Danforth and J. Stoddard Williams were voted on the ballot for director of finance.

Ex-Mayor William H. White and ex-Mayor John P. Kane were nominated for Mayor at Lawrence.

MISS FOLEY TELLS OF 'WILD WEST' VOTE TRIP

"I arrived in Nevada the 4th of September," said Miss Margaret Foley today, describing her latest suffrage campaign, "and I left Reno the 4th of November. All the intervening time I worked day and night. I saw every voter in the State and danced and gossiped with most of them. I used up four $40 mileage books, one ticket straight across the State, and any number of horses and automobiles.

"Occasionally I traveled by stage coach. One interesting night I took a fifty-mile trip along with a couple of drunken cowboys. After they awoke from a sleep in the bottom of the coach they began to shoot for excitement. There was nothing to do but ask them for their revolvers and let them teach me shooting, too.

"In the smaller towns and at the mining camps most of the people had never heard of suffrage. So one of the men would shoot his revolver into the air or set off a couple of sticks of dynamite—the customary way of calling the populace together. The men would come riding in from all points, and I would begin.

"Once the people held a train on the main line exactly one hour and a half so that I could make an important connection.

Indians came to the meetings, the women even more than the men. They watched me with unmoving faces, papooses leaning against their knees and on their boards.

"Why did Nevada gain suffrage? Just because of what we did. We did more than any man candidate ever did."

RASH ON BABY'S FACE AND NECK

Also Chest. Then on Head. Took Off Great Patches of Hair. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

Elm St., Mechanic Falls, Me.—"Our baby's face, neck and chest first broke out with a kind of rash and seemed to be sore for washing hurt her so. Her head was covered with great scabs and when we put ——— on, it lifted the scabs and left her head all raw where they came off. It also took off great patches of hair. She acted as if it smarted terribly and would not stop scratching it only made it worse. It was red and covered with little spots of blood.

"A friend told me how Cuticura Soap and Ointment had cured her little girl who suffered agonies with eczema. We got some and in a short time her face, neck and chest were entirely well of the eczema. Then her head began to have patches like dandruff. She had it before she had the eczema and her hair came out in patches. It itched terribly and the dandruff formed big brown scabs. She would scratch them off and leave her head all raw underneath. We thought perhaps Cuticura Soap and Ointment would cure that, too. They softened the scalp and lifted the scabs and at the same time healed her head underneath. Her hair stopped coming out and grew fast. Now she is completely healed of the trouble." (Signed) Belmont H. Pratt, Jan. 28, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail

Although Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold throughout the world, a sample of each with 32-p. Skin Book will be sent free upon request. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Keep School Children's Heads Clean

Don't pull your children's hair out with a fine comb or endanger their eyesight & lives with liquids or drugs. As a preventive and sure cure physicians & school authorities recommend the sanitary sure way of washing them every week with FITZGERALD'S HAIR SOAP, a medicated shampoo & the only thing that will kill nits & vermin, & destroys all their eggs or larvæ, also DISSOLVES DANDRUFF & thoroughly washes them all out of the hair along with all dust & dirt. It keeps the hair always clean, healthy, soft & fluffy; prevents its falling out; promotes its luxuriant growth; no drugs or even fine combing is ever needed. LADIES EMPLOYED in stores, factories & establishments where dust & germs are flying around, & where they come in contact with all kinds of people, find this Soap indispensable. Always in a white tin box. Refuse all substitutes. Two sizes, 25c. & 50c., worth its weight in gold. At all druggists or by mail of Fitzgerald Soap Co., Collingswood, N. J., if your druggist will not supply you. SAVE THIS NOTICE. FREE. Fitzgerald's Hair Soap has been used for many years in orphanages & children's institutions in different parts of the world, doing away entirely with cutting children's hair off to keep their heads clean. Cupid Interned? Fewer Weddings Among Smart Set

The Boston Social Register for 1915, just issued, shows fewer marriages than the 1914 register.

Judging from the register the number of society weddings in Boston has fallen off the past year from the years before.

But the number of names in the 1915 volume is larger than that of the previous year, showing an apparent widening of the society circle, or a natural increase due to growth of the city.

Seattle and Portland, Ore., and Southern California (Los Angeles and Pasadena) are now on the "Social Register" map, the association which gets out these interesting volumes having added those localities to its field of enterprise.

Emma Goldman Declares That Bombs Are Cheap

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Emma Goldman, who has just finished a three weeks' lecture engagement here, said:

"I am interested to know that a New York paper has offered $1,000 reward for bomb-throwers. Bombs are cheap. The offer ought to be $10,000."

After looking over the list of bomb outrages in New York since January 1, she said:

"The Anarchists must be working hard. I shall be in New York on December 23 and will lecture there for four months. About this bomb business, you see the New York police have not had publicity since one of them killed a gambler. It seems they need publicity now."

Oliver, the World's Greatest Joker, Dashes Off Poems on Boston Topics

SOLILOQUY TO THE BOTTLE

'Tis plain to see that you and I together cannot pull,
For you are full when I am dry, and I'm dry when you are full.

Edwin Austin Oliver, the world's greatest joker, dashed this just to see how his muse was working, when an AMERICAN reporter dropped in at the Back Bay hotel where he is staying.

"How's this on the Boston Woman?" he asked next.

If her age, it is twenty or fifty or more,
She looks at herself in the glass.
If she lives on an income or works in a store,
She looks at herself in the glass.
If her hat is crooked, don't worry or fret,
Or if by some chance on quite straight it is set;
If it's not on at all, it's a pretty safe bet,
She looks at herself in the glass.

"You know I was married," he said. "People sometimes ask me why I am not married. I tell them father was married three times, and they never ask me again. Well, about the looking glass. Here's some more:

If a maiden's expecting her sweetheart to call,
She looks at herself in the glass.
And after they have said their good-by in the hall,
She looks at herself in the glass.
Her cheeks, they are crimson, her hair is a mess.
Her collar is wilted as you may well guess,
And the print of his arm marks the waist of her dress,
When she looks at herself in the glass.

"You know a number of humorists were holding a convention at the Brunswick. Well, one old country bumpkin chanced in the hotel and saw several pictures of the Boston humorists. He spoke of how classic they looked and all that sort of thing.

"When he came to my picture, he exclaimed: 'Golly! I like the looks of that fellow, because he's the only one that looks sorry for what he has done.' I always try to look that way when coming to Boston.

"I really like Boston because you can let go your historical jokes here. New York doesn't know who Nero was. But here's my squib on Nero:

He was an old Roman duffer, you know,
Old Nero was a merry man
I guess there's no denyin'!
They say he played his fiddle hard
When all around was fryin'.
He was a first class artist, too,
And very far from middlin';
Now if your Boston was burnin' up
Could you keep on a fiddlin'?

He played some classic tunes, 'tis said—
His art had been improvin'—
He also played some ragtime airs,
Both elbows he kept movin'.
He did not even look around
When cinders were a riddlin';
Say if Boston was burnin' down
Could you keep on a fiddlin'?

Denounce School Girls' Dress as a "Moral Menace"

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 18.—School Superintendent Henry D. Harvey arraigned parents severely in an address. He said:

"The modern home is conspicuously failing both to control the time and activities of boys and girls outside of school and by precept and example to fix proper standards of fitness and modesty in dress.

"The styles through which we are now passing and from which, let us hope, we are soon to emerge, have in many instances been little less than scandalous. How sincere is the outcry of women against the grosser forms of evil, for none of which they hold themselves responsible, when with callous indifference to the facts of life they send their own daughters to the high school so immodestly exposed that they come perilously near to being a moral menace to the youth of our city.

"If these mothers knew how this thing is viewed by clean young fellows who want to be decent, it might perhaps lead to a rude awakening and, let us hope, to reform. The mother who does not make mighty spiritual forces living realities at her own hearthstone cannot retrieve herself or save her weak-willed or self-indulgent children simply by placing a piece of paper into a ballot box."

LORD ROBERTS' BODY IN STATE TILL THURSDAY

LONDON, Nov. [illegible].—Lord Kitchener, Lord Curzon of Kedleston and the Earl of Crewe in the House of Lords paid tribute to Lord Roberts. "His achievements as a soldier and his character as a man," said Lord Kitchener, "will be an abiding memory not only in Parliament, but in the whole nation. His family will forever be associated with the memorable march to Kandahar."

Lord Roberts' body arrived at Folkestone from Boulogne. It will be taken to his late residence, Englemere, at Ascot, arriving there today. The body will lie in state until Thursday, when it will be taken to the railway station on the gun carriage which his son died trying to save at Colenso during the South African war.

A special train will then bring the casket to London. Troops will escort it to St. Paul's, the vault in St. Paul's in which the field marshal will lie in the company of Great Britain's greatest soldiers.

SHEINWALD'S DEPARTMENT SHOE STORE

'SOUL SAFE, I'M HAPPY WITHOUT A JOB,' SAYS EX-POLICEMAN MINER

WHY POLICEMAN QUIT BEST JOB FOR FAITH

I promised my mother on her death bed I would return to the Seventh Day Adventist faith.

My conscience is clear, even if I have lost my police job, my wife is broken-hearted and I have but a few cents.

I could easily have "framed it" to have had a pension.

The police board can take my job, but not my soul nor my religion.

Edson T. Miner, the former Boston policeman, who was discharged from the force when he refused to work on Saturday because it conflicted with the doctrine of the Seventh Day Adventists, whose faith he has embraced, today started to search for a new job.

"I shall undoubtedly find one," declared Miner today at the home of his brother at No. 7 Greenwood Park, Dorchester. Mrs. Miner has gone away temporarily, for she and her fifteen-year-old son must support themselves, now that the head of the family has but a few cents.

"After a man has railroaded for ten or eleven years and been a policeman for the same length of time he finds himself drifting away from a self-supporting occupation, but once I get going everything will come back to me.

"It has been said that the Seventh Day Adventists did not pray for me during my trouble in the police department. That is not true. They prayed hard for me at all times and did all in their power to help me in my differences with the trial board.

GUIDED BY CONSCIENCE.

"No, I cannot say that I will preach the doctrine of the Seventh Day Adventists. No man preaches unless God calls him and God has not called me as yet.

"A week from Saturday the happiest moment of my life will come, for on that day I am to be baptized at the New England Sanitarium in Melrose, as a Seventh Day Adventist. Then I will indeed be one of the faithful. My conscience told me to obey my mother's death-bed request and I am content."

Telling his story of his return to the faith of his childhood, Mr. Miner said:

MOTHER'S DYING WISH.

When a boy in New Hampshire I was received into the flock, but as a man in the city I had neglected my religion. My mother died a year ago last September. On the day of her funeral I was handed a letter she had left for me, the understanding being that it was not to be opened until after the burial.

It begged me to fulfil the promise I made to her. The anniversary of her death found me, last September, still outside the fold of the Seventh Day Adventists. I could bear the torture of my conscience no longer. On that very day I enrolled myself with Elder Archer P. Cotton's flock of Adventists.

I have nothing to regret. My conscience is clear and I feel quite happy, even though I am out of a job, have only a few cents, and have had my domestic happiness upset.

The powers that rule the police department can take my job, they can take the bread out of my mouth, but, thank God, they cannot deprive me of my soul and my religion. The war in Europe, will, seven months after its conclusion, be followed by a universal conflict that will mean the end of this world.

I have lost the best job I will ever have in this world. Where I am to get another I have not the slightest idea. But saving my soul more than atones for any material losses I have suffered.

Some of my brother officers tried to prevail on me to work some bluff so that I could retire with a pension. I could easily have framed up an excuse of sickness, and thereby have captured that half pay plum. But I could not be dishonest and retain the religious consolation that had come to me.

OBEYS COMMANDMENTS.

"Go to the front, say you were wrong in refusing to perform duty on Saturday, and that you will do work on that day hereafter," was another proposition placed before me.

Make a bluff of renouncing the Adventist faith just to save a good job? Not so you could notice it.

I acted as my own counsel when I went before the trial board for a hearing. I was equipped with a Bible, and from this I read each of the ten commandments. I laid particular stress on the commandment that says "no labor shall be done on the Seventh Day."

I demanded to know if any of the board did not agree that the seventh day was Saturday. Apparently all did. Then I pointed out that the observance of Sunday as the Sabbath was merely a custom that man had taken upon himself.

Then, in hammering my argument home, I declared: "Why is Commissioner O'Meara any more justified in ordering my to break the Sabbath commandment, if I wish to hold my job, than he would be in ordering officers to take the name of God in vain?"

No prayers were said for me by the Adventist brethren, all of whom know of the trouble that was impending. The real Christian does not ask heaven to send him worldly things.

"All I can say is that my world has come to an end," declared Miner's wife today. "From a cozy home I have been reduced to circumstances that make it necessary for me to work so that my boy and I shall have a roof over our heads. There will be no Thanksgiving or Christmas for me this year."

INEZ H. GILLMORE, SCITUATE WRITER, GRANTED A DIVORCE

Inez Haynes Gillmore, New England authoress, who secured divorce in California.

Inez Haynes Gillmore, the authoress, a Radcliffe graduate and resident of Scituate has been granted a divorce from Rufus H. Gillmore of New York, according to dispatches received today from San Francisco.

Mrs. Gillmore, who, in her "Phoebe and Earnest" tales, painted the truest and finest pictures of an American home, has been separated from her husband for a year and a half. Since November 16, 1913, she has been residing in California.

As soon as she was awarded a decree she started for her home in Scituate.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gerberding, prominent San Francisco club woman, appeared in court with Mrs. Gillmore and testified to the unhappiness of the couple and the mutual agreement to separate. As evidence of incompatibility, a letter written by Gillmore to his wife here in October of last year was introduced.

Mrs. Gillmore is a recognized leader in the feminist movement—a suffragist since she was thirteen years old, and a devout believer in woman's right to do anything she may wish to do.

It was not so long ago that Mrs. Gillmore discussed with an interviewer the question, "Should women propose?" Her answer was emphatically in the affirmative. She said:

"If a man has the right to ask a woman to become his wife and mother of his children, to the same degree is it her privilege to ask her ideal to join her in matrimony.

"It is inevitable that women propose, from time immemorial, the only difference being that now they openly ask for the man's name and love."

'SMITH OF TECH' WILLS THE CITY $250,000 GIFT

"Mr. Smith," the man who has given millions to Technology without divulging his name, has provided in his will, according to Mayor Curley, for a bequest of $250,000 to establish a convalescent home for men on the grounds of the West Roxbury Parental School.

Mayor Curley says "Mr. Smith" is one of the leading citizens of Boston and always has the best interests of the city at heart.

"Is he very ill?" the Mayor was asked.

"No, he is in fine health," replied the Mayor. Then, as an after thought, he added. "But he is getting old."

Concerning use to which the Parental School buildings may be put at present, the Mayor declared that in case of necessity he will open the buildings at once as a home for convalescent children, regardless of the act of the last Legislature providing that these buildings shall not be transferred from the children's institutions department to hospital department for at least twelve months after the passage of the act. The act was passed last June. Thus, although the buildings are now vacant, the youngsters having been transferred to the new disciplinary day schools, the Mayor has no power to put them to use.

"With epidemics of children's diseases in nearly all the cities surrounding us," he said, "it is a possibility that there might be a spread of diphtheria, measles or whooping cough here. In case there is, I shall immediately order the Parental School put into use. At any event, I shall introduce into the next Legislature a bill amending this clause of the act, in order that the buildings can be used at any time."

The hospital trustees have informed the Mayor that with slight alterations they could make the buildings serve as a convalescents' home for children for at least fifty years to come.

Simple Way to End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

MAGGIE TEYTE IS BACK MINUS HER 'KNICKERS'

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Maggie Teyte, tiny songbird, is back from Europe—and without her trousers. The Uhlans got them—so she says.

It was a year ago that the diva landed from the Kronprinz Wilhelm and was discovered to be wearing a Norfolk jacket and knickerbockers.

"The time will come that all women will wear them. I shall never give up mine—when lounging at home and on steamer trips," she said.

"You see they took me for a spy—and I had to give them up, either that or surrender myself. They pointed their lances at me. The officer wouldn't listen to my explanation. All he did was run up and down waving a revolver in one hand and my trousers in the other, yelling spy.

"I was informed I was under arrest, and taken to a house, where a Belgian woman told me to never mind, that I wouldn't be shot until morning. I was there four days before a friend got me out. Believe me, I got rid of the trousers then and there."

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys; they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—ADVERTISEMENT.

General Von Blankensee Dies.

BERLIN, via The Hague, Nov. 18—Major-General von Blankensee is dead of wounds received in action.

HOME MARKET PEACE MESSAGE TO CANADIANS

The Home Market Club, the noted high-protectionist organization of business men which has its headquarters in Boston, passed the following peace resolution at its annual meeting today:

> The Home Market Club at its annual meeting in Boston sends greeting to the Canadian Home Market Association of Canada and expresses the sincere hope that the war, which is calling to the defence of the interests of the British Empire so many loyal Canadians, may be speedily terminated and that the great industries of the Dominion may soon resume their steady course of development under an uninterrupted reign of peace.

A letter was read from ex-Speaker Joseph Walker, recently Progressive candidate for Governor, in which Mr. Walker recommended solution of the tariff problem as follows:

> First, let us announce the protective principle as an American—not merely a Republican—principle.
> Second, let us recognize the existing tariff as the basis; if, when we had the chance, we had taken the Dingley law as such a basis and gone about its revision in a non-political, scientific spirit, we would have been saved the agony of the last few years.
> Third, let us stand for the establishment of a permanent, non-partisan board of experts to examine the tariff rates in a scientific, non-political spirit.
> Fourth, let us announce that no tariff rate will be maintained that cannot stand the light of such an investigation.
> Fifth, let us stand only for such increases as are demonstrated to be necessary for reasonable protection, and stand equally for the reduction of such rates as are demonstrated to be excessive.

William B. H. Dowse was re-elected president of the club. These names were added to the list of vice-presidents: A. G. Pollard, Lowell; Edwin A. Cady, Warren, R. I.; Frank L. Carpenter, Fall River; Frederick E. Kip, Bridgeport, Ct.; Leonard B. Nichols, Boston.

The following members of the executive committee were elected: Franklin W. Hobbs, Boston; R. P. Snelling, Newton Upper Falls; William M. Butler, New Bedford; Nelson Curtis, Boston; Horace A. Carter, Needham Heights.

The directors elected for the term expiring 1917 were: B. H. Bristow Draper, Hopedale; W. H. Chase, Leominster; Walter E. Parker, Lawrence; Charles Cheney, So. Manchester, Ct.; W. H. Pridee, Pembroke; Louis B. Goodall, Sanford, Me.; George S. Colton, Easthampton; Richard S. Russell, North Andover; Louis A. Coolidge, Natick.

PUBLIC HEARING DEC. 1 ON NEW LIGHT CONTRACT

The draft of a new electric lighting contract was submitted to the City Council by Mayor Curley today. It is a ten-year contract and calls for the same price as the last proposed contract, which was rejected by the Council, namely, $87.53 per arc light per year. The present rate is $103.54.

But the new contract, to which the Edison Electric Illuminating Company is willing to agree, carries some new concessions by that company as follows:

> Compulsory arbitration by the Gas and Electric Light Commission within ten days after the contract is signed, to determine or not whether there shall be any further reduction in price.
> Compulsory arbitration by the same commission at the expiration of five years, to determine whether or not there shall be any further reduction in price.
> Arbitration at any time the city may demand it between times by a joint board, one to be named by the city, one by the company and they two to select a third man.
> Three-fourths of any saving effected by the company through improved equipment shall be returned to the city.
> The company shall make yearly statement to the city, itemizing in detail the cost of producing and distributing electricity, and the form of this statement shall be prescribed by the Commissioner of Public Works.

Today's meeting of the Council, at which the draft of this proposed contract was submitted, was a special session. President McDonald and Councilors Attridge and Coulthurst were absent. Six members were present.

The Council set Tuesday, December 1, at 7 p. m., for a public hearing in the City Council chamber on the contract.

It was noted by those at the Council session that the conference with labor representatives, which was asked of the Edison Company, has not taken place yet. While the negotiations for this contract were in progress the company was asked to confer with a joint committee made up of Corporation Counsel Sullivan, for the city; President McDonald, for the Council, and three representatives of organized labor. The labor interests charge the company with sidestepping such a conference. At least it has not taken place.

Miss May Aiken Wins Prize for Painting

Miss May Aiken of Boston, graduate of the school of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and holder of the Paige traveling scholarship for 1908-10, has just been awarded the first prize of $300 offered by a Philadelphia newspaper for a painting to be reproduced in a Christmas supplement. This competition was open to any American artist and drew many competitors.

Witness Missing in Vote-Buying Case

APPONAUG, R. I., Nov. 18.—John Carl Petterson, principal witness in the vote-buying case of L. D. Pierce, former council president, against Truant Officer John J. Hargraves, failed to appear in response to a legal summons and was declared in contempt of court by Judge Felix Hebert of the Fourth District Court. Attorney Ralph M. Greenlaw asked that a writ of arrest be issued.

Noble Approved as Trustee for Hotels

Referee Darling today approved of the appointment of William M. Noble as trustee for the Associated Trust Hotels, Inc. The bond was fixed at $15,000. It took the creditors five hours to select a trustee. Walter Hartstone was opposed on the ground that he represented F. P. Brine, former manager of the Hotel Lenox, which was operated by the bankrupt corporation.

CONSTANCE WILLIAMS SEES EUTHANASIA TEST IN DEATH TRIAL

By CONSTANCE WILLIAMS.

Bernard Archibald, the man conducting the prosecution of Dr. Dudley and the others who are charged with a part in the death of Mildred Sullivan, the little Aroostook girl, bases his case, according to report, on the assertion that Dr. Dudley, when he saw hope for Mildred Sullivan was gone, administered a dose of morphine to hurry death.

That is, he accuses Dr. Dudley of practicing what has come to be called "Euthanasia"; or the painless putting to death of persons for whose life there is no hope.

If this is actually the charge against Dr. Dudley; and if this charge is pressed in the trial, a widespread discussion is sure to be aroused. Euthanasia has been advocated for many years, and its legalization has been urged. Mr. Archibald, apparently, will contend that euthanasia is another word for murder.

ETHICS OF THE CHARGE.

I do not know whether this report is correct, and whether this is actually the substance of the charge against Dr. Dudley; but assuming that this is the charge, it is interesting to discuss the ethics of it.

A short time ago, I happened to fall into conversation with a physician and this subject came up. He was a man who had practiced for forty years or more in a western State, and he said:

"I am inclined to believe, and I think most physicians will agree with me, that the legalization of euthanasia would be extremely dangerous.

"Twice in my long practice the possibility has entered my mind. In one case, many years ago, I was tending a little boy suffering from hydrophobia. His case was quite hopeless—a matter of hours—and his suffering was very great. I then considered the matter, but could not bring myself to put him out of his suffering. He lingered in agony, alleviated by what drugs I could give him, and of course eventually died. The other case was that of an aged woman whose relatives, when they saw the case was hopeless, pleaded with me to end her suffering. But I did not, and she also died in a few hours.

"I have never heard directly of a case where a physician performed euthanasia. No doubt there are such cases. But to legalize such a course would be most dangerous."

CITES MAGAZINE STORY.

It happens that within the last few months, in very remote fashion, I have heard of two cases where euthanasia was apparently performed. A certain magazine of wide circulation recently published a story in which euthanasia was performed, and the author in a letter to the magazine said he had based his story on an actual incident where—as he believed—euthanasia was performed.

The case was that of a man caught in a burning building, pinned under a falling safe, both legs broken, internally injured, and with the flames creeping toward him. The ambulance surgeon strove to save him so long as it was possible to stay by his side, then—the author believes—administered an overpowering dose of morphine.

The other case has to do with a doctor of some repute in his own city in Pennsylvania. I heard, second hand, that he told one of his nurses that on a certain occasion he deliberately put a patient to death when all hope was gone, rather than allow suffering to continue.

Both those cases, it will be seen, are based on the wildest sort of hearsay evidence. Traced down, they might or might not lead to actual euthanasia. But there can be no doubt that the thing is occasionally done.

DOCTORS UNANIMOUS.

But doctors are unanimous, or almost so, in opposing any legalization of the practice. This opposition, as much as on any other consideration, is probably based on the fact that in the most hopeless cases, recovery does some times occur.

The plain fact seems to be that with all the learning of the doctors, there are points beyond which they cannot go; and that when they are most positive, nature sometimes steps in and saves a life which had been abandoned. I can cite three cases of this sort.

One was a baby, born under circumstances which forced every doctor who saw the infant to conclude it must die within a few hours of birth. It was given the utmost care, but gradually sank lower and lower—still suffering gave way to whimpering apathy. And then—for no explainable reason—a change came, the child slowly developed into normality—and today that baby is a strapping young man with nothing whatever the matter with him.

A second was a young man with tuberculosis. He tried sanitariums, and steadily became weaker and more helpless. He went West, and for a year his condition grew steadily worse. He developed an appalling case of tubercular throat, which as I understand it is considered almost inevitably fatal. This man was so ill that his death was expected not hourly, but actually from minute to minute.

ALIVE AND WELL TODAY.

But he hung on, hung on, and slowly gained. And today he is living in an Ohio city, healthy, married, actively in business, and with no trace of the white plague upon him.

The third trouble is that of a man who was suffering from a digestive trouble which reached so critical a stage that the physicians threw up their hands. "Hopeless,' they said. "He cannot live a week."

The man listened. They had been starving him for months, in an endeavor to remedy the illness.

He asked: "No chance for me?"

"You cannot live a week," they said.

"Then I want a good meal of corned beef and cabbage," he announced.

WAS BEYOND HURT.

Well, it couldn't hurt him. He was beyond hurt. So they gave him what he wanted. For three days he ate just what he wanted—ate enormously—stuffed himself with indigestibles, and threw into the discard the custards and toast and eggs they had given him theretofore.

And he recovered and lived for many years, healthy and strong.

Thus it can be seen how much interest attaches to the forthcoming trial at Houlton, if it is pushed through on the charge that Dr. Dudley killed Mildred Sullivan after hope for her had gone.

The issue of motive will undoubtedly be raised; nevertheless, the trial will really hang on just what the jury thinks of euthanasia. It is the first time, so far as I know, that the matter has been actually brought into court; and it is interesting to see just what will happen when the matter comes to the decision.

OUCH! PAIN, PAIN. RUB RHEUMATIC, ACHING JOINTS

Rheumatism is "pain only." Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" right into your sore, stiff, aching joints and muscles, and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and cannot burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. "St. Jacobs Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains.

DR. LIONEL DUDLEY, GIVEN THIRD DEGREE IN SULLIVAN CASE

The defence in the "Prettiest Girl" case is indignant at methods charged against the State, but declared its client remained unshaken.

'THIRD DEGREE' FOR DR. DUDLEY IN JAIL

Defense Claims Accused Faced Inquisition in the County Jail.

fair, where she hastened on September 1, never to return alive.

They heard of the scenes that preceded and followed her death at the Pellitier home and of her burial at midnight in a secluded wood-lot a mile away. They heard how her body was snatched from the cot where she breathed her last, wrapped in a fur coat, tucked in the back of an automobile and cast into a grave two feet deep with no more shroud than her nightgown.

DIED IN AGONY.

They heard how the body was found after sixty-five days, that seemed an eternity to her mother, who is now in such a state of collapse that her relatives fear for her. Mrs. Sullivan again insisted today that she will not be a witness before the Grand Jury or at the trial.

Chapter after chapter of this unusual rural tragedy was unfolded to the grand jurors by the guidance of County Attorney Archibald.

But the most sensational testimony related to the manner of Mildred Sullivan's death. It was shown to have been a death crowded with agony. The evidence of medical experts is understood to have revealed that the school girl's suffering was intense for hours before an injection of morphine sent her into a state of coma from which she never rallied.

Mrs. Southard has told how she heard the girl moaning after she was brought to her home at midnight following illegal surgery. Dennis Markle, driver of the "ten-cent bus" at Presque Isle, who conveyed the sick girl, Miss Michaud and Alice Pellitier to the Pellitier home from Mrs. Southard's shortly before noon, also will testify how he heard the patient moan. Miss Michaud's confession, and the details by the Medical experts, all show that Mildred's suffering was excruciating.

Mrs. George Sullivan, mother of the dead girl, and the grandmother, Mrs. Clara Carpenter of Hammond Plantation, have not been summoned to testify before the Grand Jury.

Many witnesses arrived today from Presque Isle and other points, among them Mrs. Southard, in whose house Millie stayed during the Presque Isle fair; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Melville, uncle and aunt of the dead girl; members of the Pellitier family, Dr. R. A. Graves, who was called to attend Mildred at Mrs. Southard's, but refused to; George Sullivan, the victim's father, and many more.

County Attorney Archibald will not use all his witnesses at the Grand Jury inquiry. He doesn't think it necessary. But the Sullivan case is likely to take until Friday or Saturday and capiases may be issued for further arrests immediately.

The Sullivan, and numerous other criminal and civil cases on the docket, have brought scores of strangers to Houlton. The population has increased decidedly in the past twenty-four hours.

Dr. Dudley has been transferred from a spacious cell room to a common "cage" in the jail proper with the other prisoners. He didn't relish the change. It took him out of chatting range of Alice Pellitier. A sharper watch has been kept on the accused physician. He is allowed fewer callers than last week.

A comely young woman in a plush coat tried to see him yesterday. She was held up by Turnkey Smart. Here is the dialogue:

"What can I do for you?"

"I want to see Dr Dudley."

"Relative?"

"No."

"Friend?"

"No."

"Does he know you?"

"Never saw him in my life, but I've been reading about him and the case and I thought I'd like to see what he looks like and how he talks."

Dr. Dudley did not have the pleasure of meeting this visitor.

THIN FOR YEARS—

"Gains 22 Pounds in 23 Days"

"I was all run down to the very bottom," writes F. Gagnon. "I had to quit work I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol, I look like a new man. I gained 22 pounds in 23 days."

"Sargol has put just 10 pounds on me in 14 days," states W. D. Roberts. "It has made me sleep well, enjoy what I ate and enabled me to work with interest and pleasure."

"I weighed 132 pounds when I commenced taking Sargol. After taking 20 days I weighed 144 pounds. Sargol is the most wonderful preparation for flesh building I have ever seen," declares D. Martin, and J. Meier adds: "For the past twenty years I have taken medicine every day for indigestion and got thinner every year. I took Sargol for forty days and feel better than I have felt in twenty years. My weight has increased from 150 to 170 pounds."

When hundreds of men and women—and there are hundreds, with more coming every day—living in every nook and corner of this broad land voluntarily testify to weight increases ranging all the way from 10 to 35 pounds given them by Sargol, you must admit, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Thin Reader, that there must be something in this Sargol method of flesh building after all.

Hadn't you better look into it, just as thousands of others have done? Many thin folks say: "I'd give most anything to put on a little extra weight," but when someone suggests a way they exclaim, "Not a chance. Nothing will make me plump. I'm built to stay thin." Until you have tried Sargol, you do not and cannot know that this is true.

Sargol has put pounds of healthy "stay there" flesh on hundreds who doubted, and in spite of their doubts. You don't have to believe in Sargol to grow plump from its use. You just take it and watch weight pile up, hollows vanish and your figure round out to pleasing normal proportions. You weigh yourself when you begin and again when you finish and you let the scales tell the story.

Sargol is absolutely harmless. It is a tiny concentrated tablet. You take one with every meal. It mixes with the food you eat for the purpose of separating all of its flesh producing ingredients. It prepares these fat making elements in an easily assimilated form, which the blood can readily absorb and carry all over your body. Plump, well-developed persons don't need Sargol to produce this result. Their assimilative machinery performs its functions without aid. But thin folks' assimilative organs do not. This fatty portion of their food now goes to waste through their bodies like unburned coal through an open grate. A few days' test of Sargol in your case will surely prove whether or not this is true of you. Isn't it worth trying?

If you want a beautiful and well-rounded figure of symmetrical proportions, if you want to gain some solid pounds of healthy stay-there flesh, if you want to increase your weight to normal, weigh what you should weigh, go straight to your druggist today and get a package of Sargol and use it as directed. Sargol will either increase your weight or it won't and the only way to know is to try it. A single package of Sargol easily enables you to make this test. Sixty days' use of Sargol, according to directions, is absolutely guaranteed to increase your weight to a satisfactory degree or your druggist will refund all the money you have paid him for it. Sargol is sold in Boston and vicinity by all leading druggists.

An Easy Way to Get Fat and Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This masterstroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its re-generative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient.

Leading druggists have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution: While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.

How Thin People Can Put on Flesh

A New Discovery.

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good, solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a scientific combination of six of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive. All leading druggists sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten, into rich, ripe fat-producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat-producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. Leading druggists sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Don't Merely "Stop" a Cough

Stop the Thing That Causes It and the Cough Will Stop Itself.

A cough is really one of our best friends. It warns us that there is inflammation or obstruction in a dangerous place. Therefore, when you get a bad cough don't proceed to dose yourself with a lot of drugs that merely "stop" the cough temporarily by deadening the throat nerves. Treat the cause—heal the inflamed membranes. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make an obstinate cough vanish more quickly than you ever thought possible.

Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you a full pint of the most pleasant and effective cough remedy you ever used, at a cost of only 54 cents. No bother to prepare. Full directions with Pinex. It heals the inflamed membranes so gently and promptly that you wonder how it does it. Also loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The Use of Bisurated Magnesia for Stomach Troubles

In these days of almost universal indigestion, dyspepsia and other stomach trouble, the recent announcement by a great specialist that pure bisurated magnesia is an almost infallible remedy for nearly all forms of stomach trouble, will come as a welcome surprise to all sufferers. A teaspoonful in a little water immediately after eating, or whenever pain is felt, neutralizes the excess acid, and instantly stops the fermentation and pain. Those who use bisurated magnesia regularly for a week or two usually find that the trouble has entirely disappeared, and normal digestion is completely restored.

MAYOR AIDS HUNT FOR LOST EVERETT GIRL

If the police and private detectives engaged in the search for Hildred Parker, the fifteen-year-old Everett girl, who mysteriously disappeared Saturday night, do not obtain any clew to her whereabouts before nightfall, Mayor James Chambers will order the police to drag the Coleman Brothers' pits in East Everett and Chelsea creek.

The police believe that Hildred has been kidnapped and is kept a prisoner against her will. Her father Byron Parker, has not lost faith in a clew which he received on Monday and believes that his daughter will be returned safely today.

The case has aroused all Everett citizens. Mothers in that city are afraid to allow their daughters on the streets after dark. Young women, who must go out, fear to go unescorted.

The citizens' subscription fund, which is to be used in defraying the expenses of hiring private detectives, is rapidly increasing. A prominent detective agency already has its men at work on the case.

Inquiry at the homes of all the missing girl's relatives has failed to throw any light on the mystery. A number of Boston moving picture houses have also been watched, but no clew has been obtained.

The police are still at work on a clew which they have received to the effect that the girl was seen talking to a mysterious woman not far from her home shortly before she disappeared.

The Boston police have been furnished with a description of the girl and all are on the lookout for her.

Miss Ray Price has defied the Boston police department and, up to the time this edition went to press, was "getting away with it," as they say in polite society.

Her defiance consisted in selling one "Made in the U. S. A." button to [illegible] newsboy, who wanted to give his [illegible]

The newsboy's mite consisted of three pennies. Miss Price, with other girls from "The Belle of Bond Street" company, was selling the buttons of the National Trade Mark Association to the public. The proceeds of the sale, which totalled $79.94, will be divided between the Red Cross and the Boston AMERICAN'S Christmas Fund.

The police department refused permission for the girls to sell the buttons on the street. At the end of the sale it was found that Miss Price had collected $23.33.

"You took pennies for the buttons, Ray," said Ethel Millard, accusingly.

"Well, I took three cents from a little newsboy," admitted Ray. "It was all he had and he wanted to give it and I gave him a button. He was a dear. I sold the button on the street, too, and I don't care if the police said we couldn't."

Three of the girls, Alice Randolph, Signa Pierce and Hazel Frisbee, sold at the State House, doing a thriving business among the officials. Miss Frisbee held up Councillor Alexander McGregor, who said: "I'll buy a button because you have a Scotch cap on." Miss Frisbee admitted their common nativity and collected one dollar.

Grant 'Housekeeper' Husband a Divorce

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18.—Augustus P. Ericeson, letter carrier, was granted a divorce after Mrs. Arthur Lewe testified that Ericeson was "a perfect housemaid in every respect except attire." She added: "And he should have worn dresses. He had to do what his wife wished or she'd fight." Ericeson testified he had to keep house while his wife organized welfare leagues and Suffragist societies, also that she took $70 from his trouser pocket. "That was beyond her rights," said Judge Phillips in denying Mrs. Ericeson's libel for divorce and granting the husband's cross-libel.

BOSTON FACTS ARE SOUGHT IN SIEGEL TRIAL

GENESEO, N. Y., Nov. 18.—John Flint, an expert accountant who spent several weeks in making an examination of the books at Henry Siegel's former Boston store, is expected to be on the stand the most of today at Seigel's trial on a grand larceny charge.

Joseph H. Friday, who rose from the position of office boy, in the Fourteenth Street store, in New York, to the $[illegible] secretaryship of Siegel's former Boston store, will follow Flint on the stand as a witness for the State.

By Friday the prosecution hopes to prove that Siegel's daily [illegible] controlled every move of the sixty odd managers in the different departments of the big stores and that he knew to a dollar the amount of business transacted by each concern.

A hard fight by the defense to exclude the testimony of Flint, as to the actual condition of the Fourteenth Street store, resulted in a victory for the government. The testimony, it was said, showed discrepancies in the statement offered to the National Bank of Commerce of New York, upon which a loan of $100,000 was obtained. Only four of the sixty departments in the New York Fourteenth Street store made a profit in the year 1912, Mr. Flint testified.

RESERVE BANK LAUNCHES MOVE FOR EXPANSION

The opening of Federal Reserve banks was a most beneficent proceeding as regards the business interests of the country, and the system was installed with astonishing smoothness and celerity. The effect has already been felt. In every line of trade there is more disposition to extend operations and to take advantage of the country's unprecedented opportunities. The United States has a vast amount of surplus capital now.

It is in a position to foster expansion of business to any degree. The main requisite now is courage. "Ginger" will lead this country to the prosperity state.

There is less and less talk of the danger of foreign liquidation when foreign exchanges reopen. The heavy buying for cash of American railway securities in London by great international bankers must have a very reassuring influence upon foreign holders. This country's standard stocks are today a better investment than a vast majority of European securities.

Europe will have to tax to the limit everything taxable to pay war expenses. After the fighting is over, Europeans will not have much money to invest in this country, but emigration to the land of the free is likely to be beyond precedent.

The most abnormal feature of the international trade situation at present is the enormous excess of our exports over our imports. We are wiping out foreign indebtedness at a rate beyond the dreams of any economist. Incidentally, it is interesting to read Sir George Paish's statement that he looks this week for a statement from Washington detailing the plan for establishing American credit in England to the extent of $100,000,000 to pay for sales of our securities by foreign holders.

Some market authorities are of the opinion that all now needed to make reopening of stock exchanges entirely safe is a decision in favor of railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the Eastern freight rate question.

The Commission knew all the facts before the rehearing and there is complaint at the delay in rendering the verdict. No one knows when it will come. One rumor is that it will be early in December. Meanwhile railroads and business interests are in suspense. That the roads need more money is indicated by September returns of fifty big ones, operating 160,000 miles and covering all sections. The figures show a decrease in gross of 3.32 per cent. and an increase of 2.61 in net. These percentages compare with a decrease of 2.10 per cent. in gross and an increase of 2.20 per cent. in net for August.

The price of copper is still on the rise. Sales were reported yesterday at 12 cents a pound. Domestic buying is what has done it. When manufacturers begin to buy this metal in quantities it is one of the best signs of an improvement in the country's business conditions. It is estimated that between 35,000,000 and 40,000,000 pounds were sold last week.

Counterfeit $5 and $10 Bills in Use

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Counterfeit $5 and $10 notes, which recently appeared in several cities, are occupying the attention of secret service operatives. The new counterfeits are a $5 silver certificate, Indian head series of 1899; a $10 gold certificate, 1907 series, and a $5 note of the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis. All are photographic counterfeits, two well executed and one poorly executed.

Heavy Snow in the Adirondacks

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 18.—The Adirondacks have been swept by a severe blizzard, and considerable property damage has been done. The storm started with a gale and downpour, which changed to snow. There is nearly a foot of snow in the woods now. Roofs were blown from buildings, and Tupper Lake and the other Adirondack stations and telegraph and telephone wires are down.

OPTIMISTICS

Europe has placed in this country since the war began orders for motor trucks aggregating more than $9,000,000.

* * *

For the week ended Monday last the total exports of Boston were $1,362,625 in excess of imports.

* * *

Foreign orders being filled by the Western Cartridge Co. of Chicago amount to $4,000,000. The plant is working day and night.

* * *

European demand is what has sent the price of spelter up to five cents a pound. Both France and England are buying in this country.

* * *

One country at war has ordered 150,000,000 brass rivets from the Tubular Rivet Factory of Wollaston, Mass.

* * *

On Monday 3,349 more bales of cotton were exported than on a corresponding date a year ago. Cotton exchange transactions totalled more than 200,000 bales, at a value in excess of $7,000,000. It is reported from Washington that $122,000,000 out of the proposed $135,000,000 have been subscribed to the Wade cotton pool.

* * *

It is said that Wall Street interests have been accumulating long cotton since the New York exchange reopened.

Washington officials, in close touch with business centres, estimate that foreign orders placed here for war goods now total $200,000,000.

* * *

The restoration of the credit balance with Europe has greatly eased the financial situation.

The opening of the Federal Reserve Banks is greatly strengthening the market.

Export traffic is increasing so rapidly that the scarcity of tonnage (ships) is felt. Boston has noticed this in the past fortnight.

* * *

This has had the natural effect of increasing freight rates.

* * *

At various points on the seaboards huge shipments of grain are waiting for transportation.

Dividends are being declared. Nine large corporations, ranging from railroads and industrials to mining, announce quarterly dividends payable in December or early January. These range from 1¾ per cent. quarterly dividend on common stock to a 10 per cent. bi-monthly dividend declared by a leading copper company.

Flour receipts in Chicago the past week were largest for years, increasing 15,000 barrels over the week before and 38,000 over the corresponding week last year.

* * *

The total exports from the port of Boston for the past week had a value of $2,865,057, over double the exports of the same week last year.

* * *

Heywood Brothers & Wakefield company, despite last Summer's strike, declare the usual semi-annual dividend of $3 on common stock.

A steady growing demand for the better class of bonds is reported, with the supply becoming scarce.

* * *

Standard Oil has started to spend $3,000,000 in improvements to its plant at Constable Hook, Bayonne. Massive warehouses are to be erected and 110 acres will be filled in along New York Bay.

GERMANS CHECK THE RUSSIANS IN POLAND

he had orders from his government to enter the harbor of Smyrna and had decided to do so."

Washington officials did not credit this report and Secretary of the Navy Daniels said that Captain Becker had no orders to enter Smyrna Bay except at his discretion, and that the captain's discretion was relied upon.

The report of the firing on the Tennessee's launch was apparently confirmed by a dispatch early today which read:

> ATHENS, Nov. 18.—The Governor of Mitylene wires that the Greek steamer Byzantium has arrived with refugees from Smyrna. The captain communicates that a steam launch from the American armored cruiser Tennessee anchored at Vurla and tried to enter the Gulf of Smyrna with the object of arranging with the Turkish authorities for the entrance of the Tennessee into the port of Smyrna.
> The fort of Karebostruou fired on the launch, obliging her to return to Vurla.
> CAPTAIN BENTON CLARK DECKER, COMMANDER OF THE TENNESSEE, SENT WORD TO THE AUTHORITIES OF SMYRNA THAT THE ORDERS OF HIS GOVERNMENT WERE TO ENTER SMYRNA, AND HE WAS DETERMINED TO CARRY THEM OUT, FORCIBLY IF NECESSARY.

BIG BATTLE IN RUSSIAN POLAND.

There is heavy fighting today in West Flanders and Russian Poland, according to dispatches from London and Berlin.

Russian and German forces are locked in a great battle along the thirty-mile front from Plock to Kutno, according to reports received from the front today. The result of this conflict has not yet been decided, but the Berlin War Office says the situation of the German troops is "highly favorable."

Petrograd says of this conflict that heavy forces are now engaged, but the battle has not been decided yet. Victory over the Austrians at Bukorina, on the Austro-Roumanian border, after a three-day fight, is reported by the Petrograd War Office.

Success by the Germans along this line will compel the Russians to abandon their campaign against Posen and direct their strength to the defence of Warsaw.

Amsterdam received word from Vienna today that the Austrian troops concentrated about Cracow have taken the offensive and thrown the Russians in southwestern Poland back. This was an official announcement by the War Office.

Vienna, in addition to claiming a victory over the Russians in Galicia, also claims that Montenegrin forces have been defeated at Grabowa, and important gains against the Servians, who are now reported as concentrating at fortified positions near Belgrade.

Official War Reports.

FRENCH.

French Coat of Arms

PARIS, Nov. 18.—The day of the 17th was similar to the preceding one. There were numerous cannonades and some isolated attacks by the infantry of the enemy. They were all repulsed. From the North Sea to the Lys the front was very actively bombarded, particularly at Nieuport and to the east and to the south of Ypres.

Near Bixschoote, the Zouaves, making a brilliant bayonet charge, captured a wood that had been fought over for three days by the enemy and ourselves. To the south of Ypres an offensive movement by the enemy's infantry was rolled back by our troops. The English army has equally maintained its front.

From Arras to the Oise there is nothing to report. In the region of Craonne our artillery has several times gained the advantage over the enemy's batteries. The bombardment of Rheims continues. From Rheims to the Argonne there is nothing to report.

AUSTRIAN.

[illegible] Coat of Arms

VIENNA, Nov. 18.—Our troops advancing on Sunday from the neighborhood of Cracow took the enemy's first line of defence on the northern frontier in the Wolbrom-Pilica region. When the Russians came within range of our artillery their infantry was everywhere repulsed. We captured 500 prisoners and two machine guns. The German victory at Kutno is already affecting the general situation.

From Paris comes the news that the artillery attacks by the Germans on the position of the allies at Ypres that has been going on for two days without cessation is continued today with unabated fury.

London states that British warships have resumed their bombardment of the German positions along the Belgian coast in an attempt to destroy the German artillery that is shelling Nieuport, which has been almost ruined by the rain of shells poured upon it.

Reports received here today declared that the artillery duel between the opposing forces in Belgium is the most terrific in the history of the world. It continues night and day, the gunners being guided at night by searchlights playing upon the enemy's position.

The Paris official statement today says that attacks made by the German infantry, under cover of the artillery, have been repulsed. The full strength of the German bombardment is now directed against the troops of the allies at Nieuport and to the east and to the south of Ypres.

At the extreme eastern end of the great battle, which has been in progress sixty-seven days, the French are making strong demonstrations around St. Mihiel and are making progress. The French have captured a number of prisoners in the Meuse Valley since Sunday, some of them only seventeen years old. The boys said they were students when the war broke out and went direct from the class room to the barracks.

GERMAN GENERALS SLAIN.

The Berlin War Offfice also announced today the death of two German generals on the field of battle. General von Lepel, commander of a reserve infantry division, was killed on November 11, and General Alfred von Vrien was killed on November 12.

The German newspapers cite these two casualties and other among the lower officers as direct refutation of the charges made in the English press that German soldiers are driven to slaughter by their commanders while they themselves remain in comparative safety behind the firing line.

An important victory for the British in South Africa is officially announced from Pretoria. General Beyers and 15,000 rebels have been defeated in the Hoopstad district by General Botha and Commandant Holt. The rebels were pursued for eighteen miles, but split into small columns and most of them escaped. General Botha's men took one hundred prisoners and large quantities of munitions. Only six of General Botha's soldiers were wounded.

BASKET FUND GROWS

one of the most prominent members of the Boston C[illegible], heartily indorsed the AMERICAN'S plan of "Give a Christmas Basket."

Mr. Elder says:

> It's entirely true that the intense suffering across the seas and the great outpouring of benefactions for Europe has somewhat blinded us to the suffering at home.
> It's true that charity begins first at home, and it is well that every means be taken to relieve suffering here.

The plan is delightfully simple.

Will you give a basket of Christmas dinner—with maybe a useful gift or two—to some needy Greater Boston family on Christmas?

If you can't arrange conveniently to get and fill a basket will you pay for one or more?

The AMERICAN'S Christmas Editor figures that it will cost $2 for such a basket, suitably filled, for an average family. For this must be no scanty or measured dinner. It must be generous and "Christmassy."

The AMERICAN will arrange for distributions of all these baskets. Those who send in $2, instead of a basket, will know that their money is being applied to this basket relief work.

It may seem simpler to send in $2, but many people think that one of the greatest joys of giving is the personal service and that buying the dinner supplies, and packing them snugly in the basket, is too much fun to be missed.

The AMERICAN asks this thing particularly—if you are going to send cash—do so without delay, so the Christmas Editor may know upon how much money to figure.

But, if you are going to fill and send a basket, please notify the Christmas Editor of your intention, so those in charge of the arrangements may likewise know how many filled baskets to expect.

Send all money or other Christmas communications to the Christmas Editor, Boston AMERICAN, No. 82 Summer street.

Readers are asked to send in names of families which need such Christmas baskets. The AMERICAN wishes the baskets to go to the hungry, the lonesome, the forgotten.

The AMERICAN also includes in its united Christmas plan a big Christmas tree for children, with a celebration and music for the grown-ups.

Details of these will be announced in due time.

The thing now is to have the public grasp this "Give a basket" idea, so that it may decide what it wishes to do and notify the Christmas Editor of the same.

Here are two of the many letters received showing the need:

Christmas Editor:

Will the Boston AMERICAN be kind enough and remember me and my little children on Christmas, as their father is dead and they need lot of warm things. I have three children, one twelve, another thirteen and one two years old.

I take in washing to support them. My boy sells papers. The AMERICAN he sells most. I was glad when I saw your kind offer in the AMERICAN. Please don't forget us also with a basket.

Thankfully,
MRS. ——,
Roxbury.

Christmas Editor:

I saw in your paper Monday night that there was good cheer in store for the poor.

I am a poor widow and have two children to support. I do not know where my Christmas dinner is coming from, so I do hope you will send us a basket for myself and my two children.

MRS. ——,
Jamaica Plain.

WAR PERSONALS AND SIDELIGHTS

The story of the capturing of two British colonels is that they surrendered to British troops. It appears that they got the impression that they were cut off from the rest of the line and surrounded by a much superior force. They immediately hoisted the white flag to save their men from wholesale annihilation. It is said that they were deceived by the fact that some of the British troops have lately been supplied with overcoats which at a distance seem to resemble the gray-blue of the Germans.

A British officer has been decorated with the Iron Cross. The Germans had just made a fierce charge and on retreating carried back all of their wounded except one man. The British officer went out under fire to bring this wounded German to safety and was wounded in the effort. In spite of the wound the officer managed to bring the wounded German to shelter. Both were later picked up by a German ambulance. The commanding officer of the Germans decorated the British officer as soon as the story had been told him, and sent the hero back to the British lines, where he died soon afterwards.

The lifesaving dogs of the Germans have proven invaluable in finding isolated wounded. Many brave fighters are saved just in time from bleeding to death or from death by exposure. The Germans call these dogs Sanitaetshunde.

Many cases of sudden madness have occurred in the trenches in the low-lying country of Flanders. Death, ruin and constant strain rack a man's nerves until he is almost beside himself.

Twenty mines are picked up daily by the Dutch coast guard which is patrolling along the shores of Holland. So generously have the warring nations mined the North Sea that not a day passes without its harvest of these floating death traps. All branches of Dutch navigation are imperiled by them, but seemingly Holland is unwilling to make a protest.

The German army is publishing a daily field paper. Much of the printing is done on captured printing presses. The compositors and printers are soldiers, who are said to do their work with accuracy and speed.

Julia Arthur Off for N. Y. Benefit

Mrs. Benjamin P. Cheney (Julia Arthur), it was announced in New York today, has consented to appear at the coming benefit there for the European actors' and American ambulance funds and will give, as she did at the Boston Theatre benefit, the play "Mercedes" by Thomas Bailey Aldrich. The Boston benefit netted $4,571.

William Faversham, the actor, learning of the great success of the Boston benefit said "We must have Mrs. Cheney for our benefit here. She has done more than anybody else for her brothers and sisters of the profession. We bless her."

A telegram was sent and it was announced today that Mrs. Cheney had consented to appear and will leave for New York tomorrow.

UGH! NOT CALOMEL, OIL OR SALTS, TAKE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

Delicious "fruit laxative" cleanses stomach, liver and bowels.

A harmless cure for sick headache, biliousness, sour stomach, constipation, indigestion, coated tongue, sallowness—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the cause of all such misery comes from a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

A tablespoonful tonight means all constipation poison, waste matter, fermenting food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without griping. Please don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children, because this delicious fruit laxative can not cause injury. Even the most delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless, effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser, regulator and tonic ever devised.

Your only difficulty may be in getting the genuine; so ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." This city has many counterfeit "fig syrups," so watch out.—ADVERTISEMENT.

FOR UPSET STOMACH, INDIGESTION, GAS, HEARTBURN—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

Time it! In five minutes your sick, sour stomach feels fine.

Sour, sick, upset stomach, indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia; when the food you eat ferments into gases and stubborn lumps; your head aches and you feel sick and miserable, that's when you realize the magic in Pape's Diapepsin. It makes stomach distress go in five minutes. If your stomach is in a revolt—if you can't get it regulated, please, for your sake, try Pape's Diapepsin. It's so needless to have a bad stomach—make your next meal a favorite food meal, then take a little Diapepsin. There will not be any distress—eat without fear. It's because Pape's Diapepsin "really does" regulate weak, out-of-order stomachs that gives it its millions of sales annually.

Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. It is the quickest, surest stomach relief and cure known. It acts almost like magic. It is a scientific, harmless stomach preparation which truly belongs in every home.—ADVERTISEMENT.

Buy Prince Albert all over the nation—anywhere, everywhere. Toppy red bags, 5c (handy for cigarette smokers); tidy red tins, 10c; also handsome pound and half-pound humidors.

Mighty like drawing aces to jam a jimmy pipe brimful or roll up a makin's cigarette with Prince Albert, then make fire with a match! Such smokings! Yes, sir, the kind you can draw to all day and all night and have a lot of fun all the time!

Prince Albert came into the game five years ago a little stranger in a big land, but it was cut for a square deal, and today it is the one best bet of men everywhere who play fair with their tongues and want fair play—with all the cards on the mahogany! Catch the thought?

PRINCE ALBERT

is built like a thoroughbred. It won't kick, it won't bite, it won't parch! That's because it is made by the now world-famous patented process that cuts out the kick and the bite and the parch! No other tobacco ever was or can be today anywhere near like Prince Albert!

You can raise right here—and clean the table—that Prince Albert will win with you because it's true blue, any way you play it! Costs a dime to sit in and find out first-hand that all we claim for Prince Albert is case cards—signed, sealed, delivered—with the reputation of this great business right behind every grain of tobacco! Does that listen?

MANDOT AWARDED VERDICT
OVER SAYLOR AT ATLAS A. A.
AFTER 12 CLOSE ROUNDS

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

GALLANT REPEATS VICTORY
OVER CROSS IN 10-ROUND
BOUT IN NEW YORK RING

MANDOT WINS THE DECISION OVER SAYLOR

By RINGSIDE.

Joe Mandot made good on his first visit here. The star little Southerner, in his debut before a Boston audience, won a decisive victory over Young Saylor of Indianapolis at the Arena. When Referee Patsy Haley lifted Mandot's hand aloft, indicating that he had won, there was a loud cheer from the "fans," showing that they fully appreciated the decision.

Mandot is a clean cut, bronzed skin boy, with a youthful look. A remarkable thing about him is that, although he has been through many hard battles during his short career, he does not appear to carry a mark.

He is clever, packs a good solid punch, and, though he does not look to be a whirlwind on his feet, he is one of those fighters who manages to get out of the way of many well-directed punches.

SAYLOR HAS FINE FUTURE.

This may have accounted for Saylor missing so often, but not all of the time. If Milburn had landed every punch he let go, Mandot might have been on the other end of the award. For let it be known Saylor is one of the poorest judges of distance who has boxed here in some time. His peculiar pose may have something to do with his poor direction, for he crouches and lets fall left and right without ever looking up.

Saylor has a fine reach for a lightweight. He is a fighter from the word "go," and if he learns to control his punches better he may turn out to be a headliner. But just as long as he continues to swing carelessly he cannot expect to get much further than he is now.

SAYLOR PUZZLED MANDOT.

Saylor proved troublesome at first. He fought with his head down and left hand extended full length. This seemed to bother Mandot as he found it hard to get inside.

In the opening session both worked the left jab often, but it did very little damage. Mandot appeared very adept in side-stepping, and by the use of his clever footwork, managed to get out of the way of many well-meant swings.

Nearing the end of the second round, Saylor backed against the ropes in an effort to draw Mandot in. But the Memphis boy was evidently up to his rival's game and stood off.

The first effective blow of the bout came in the third chapter, when Mandot sunk a wicked left in Saylor's chest. After much clinching, both men exchanged a fusilade of light taps, and jabs, but none of them carried much steam behind.

Saylor started the fourth round with a rush. Right off the reel he landed two hard punches to Mandot's stomach. Mandot retaliated with hard crack, which caught Saylor on the side of the head. It was here that the Indianapolis boy worked the "whip punch," made famous by Battling Nelson. The men clinched.

Saylor hit Mandot back of the head and then whipped his hand back, catching his opponent under the chin. He used this blow quite effectively during the early round.

There was little doing in the fifth. Just as the six round was about to close Mandot got home two solid rights to the body. Saylor came back with a right and left to the head.

Opening the seventh Mandot shot a hard left to the chest. He then exchanged punches with his rival at close quarters. Mandot ducked a wild left, and while Sayor was off his balance, Joe shot two jabs to the face.

As the bout progressed, Saylor seemed to gain confidence in himself. It was in the ninth that he showed his first real flash.

The men set a fast and furious pace in the last three rounds. It was evident that Saylor was working hard to get in the running. He did most of the leading in these three chapters, but in his rush he again let loose many wild swings, which Mandot had very little trouble in ducking or sidestepping, as the occasion called for.

In the tenth Saylor rocked Mandot's head with a hard right after Joe had planted a left and right on his face.

In the opening bout Teddy Murphy made Johnny Yanger quit in two rounds. Willie Green and Young Al Ketchel boxed a hard six-round bout and Ketchel was given the award. In the semi-final Young Smiley of the U. S. S. Virginia and Joe Morgan of Manchester boxed eight rounds to a draw.

CROSS BEATEN IN FAST BOUT BY GALLANT

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Gilbert Gallant of Boston repeated his victory over Leach Cross by whipping the local lightweight over the ten-round trail at the Empire A. C.

Cross made a desperate rally in the concluding three rounds, but he failed to overcome Gallant's early lead.

Gallant took the aggressive early and scored a knockdown in the first round with a left hook to the jaw, Cross taking a count of seven. In the fifth round a similar blow put Cross down for eight seconds.

Cross found his bearings in the sixth round and administered severe punishment, Gallant bleeding from the nose and mouth.

In the final three rounds Cross had the better of the fighting, but the visitor's lead was too great to overcome. Cross slipped to the floor several times after missing wild [illegible] men weighed in at 137½ pounds.

College Football

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18.—The Penn football squad started the final preparation for the Cornell game at Franklin Field. No scrimmage was indulged in, Coach Brooke spending the entire afternoon in trying out new combinations. Murdock, who has been Merrill's understudy at quarterback, had a long trial at the guiding [illegible]. Lenderberg is another man who received a trial. He is green, but is fast and has lots of fight. He is being tried out at halfback. Several other changes are expected.

* * *

CARLISLE, Pa., Nov. 18.—Coach Warner reserved his Carlisle varsity players from scrimmage, but allowed the scrub and reserve elevens a game of thirty minutes. The regulars had a thorough drill at fundamentals and signals. The new [illegible] arrangement is expected to find [illegible] and Henry Broker alternating at quarterback.

* * *

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 18.—Old players and coaches are arriving here at Dartmouth daily. Larry Bankart, '10, coach of Colgate, which held Syracuse scoreless, arrived on the scene of action and immediately got into the practice. The practice was on the rudiments of the game and ended in a blinding snowstorm. McAuliffe was in togs and had a little exercise to improve his wind. The practice today will be the last scrimmage of the year. The scrubs, coached on Syracuse plays by the late arrivals, will play against the varsity. Coach Cavanaugh will build up a defence and offence against these Syracuse formations.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 18.—Realizing that the final selections for the Naval Academy team will be based upon the showing in the practices of the week, the members of the squad played with the utmost spirit. The practice consisted of a long scrimmage, considerable passing and kicking and formations.

* * *

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 18.—After a rest of two days the Brown squad got into action once more. Brown has no game scheduled for Saturday, which means that the coaches will not worry about getting the team ready for the final battle of the season with Carlisle on Thanksgiving Day. Practice this afternoon consisted of a long drill in covering and catching punts.

* * *

ITHACA, Nov. 18.—A foretaste of Winter in the shape of a snowstorm drove the Cornell football players into the baseball cage. The varsity players had another day of easy going, as far as scrimmaging was concerned, but all of the backs and ends were taken to one side and put through a long drill in passing. Although Cornell has developed the rushing game to a great extent all Fall, little progress has been made with the forward pass.

* * *

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 18.—In the desperate attempt to beat Lehigh Lafayette has reinforced its coaching staff by the addition of Captain [illegible] Magee of the Phillies. Magee has played football with the professional football team of Watertown, N. Y., and has been connected with the professional game for some years. He is a close friend of Coach Crowell and will remain with Lafayette for the remainder of the week. The squad went through a long scrimmage in addition to signal practice.

Milton A. C. Quintet Booking Hard Games

The Milton A. C. wants to meet strong basketball teams away from home. Of last year's team there are Captain Cross, Nehmer, Adams, Powers and MacHardy. Johnson, last year's right forward, will not play this year, but will act as manager, succeeding De Bruyn. The new players are Bert Doucet and "Jake" Cannon, formerly a forward and centre respectively on the 1912 champion Boylston Five, and "Kit" Regnier, the old Dorchester High and Brown University back. For games address Billy Johnson, Mattapan.

Liquors

for the Feast!

Snow's Thanksgiving list of old liquors is well worth having, because the liquors are PURE; and prices are worth paying, because the quality is SURE. Standing above all is Snow's ripe old whiskey at 75c and $1.00 a quart, which is certainly a very fit distillation for the glorious feast.

CHAUNCY ROLLS THE BOYLSTON TEAM TONIGHT

THE match between Chauncy and Boylston on the lanes of the former team will hold the centre of the stage in the City Bowling League tonight. The race in this organization is growing more interesting with each succeeding week, and the sceptics who predicted a runaway for Chauncy early in the season, are beginning to realize that there are at least two or three other teams who will make the going worth while right down to the very end.

Boylston is one of the teams counted upon. In its last meeting with Billy Beatty's aggregation, Boylston only won one point, but would have secured an even break but for individual slumps at the wrong time. As it was Chauncy won its third point in the very last effort of Poehler.

It is doubtful, however, if Boylston will be able to do as well on the Chauncy alleys. The home team is a hard one to beat in its own rendezvous, having yet to lose a match there.

NEXT in the point of importance to the big match is the contest between Casino and Adams Square. The latter should win, but will have its hands full, as Casino has been doing very well, yet it has been unfortunate in getting the worst of the "breaks."

As things now stand Carruth will doubtless have very little trouble in vanquishing Murray. The South End team needs strengthening, and until this is done it cannot expect to get much higher than last place.

MAUGUS and North Gate, joint occupants of first place in the Newton bottlepin league, will both encounter strong opponents tonight. Maugus will be pitted against the Arlington Boat Club, the highest average team in the league, while North Gate will meet Newtowne, holder of all the records in the organization.

* * *

"BUCK" DERVIN of Lynn proved himself the master of Jack Taylor in a twenty-string match. In the final ten strings at the Noodle alleys, East Boston, last night, Dervin scored a pinfall of 1,001 against Taylor's 967.

* * *

JOE SPILLANE or Frank Hardy will take charge of the Bowdoin Square alleys shortly.

* * *

THE railroad clerks who do their bowling at the Dewey Square alleys will put up two turkeys for competition next week.

TERRY GRIFFIN is leading the individuals in the City Hall League. Terry is maintaining a consistent pace and to date has an average of 101.

MELROSE the high average team of the Mystic Valley League, will meet a worthy opponent tonight at the Clarendon Club alleys in Somerville.

BOTH ST. LOUIS MAJOR LEAGUE TEAMS are likely to do their early training work in Texas. The Browns have arranged to work out at Houston and the Cardinals are trying to get a camp in San Antonio.

BRISCOE LORD, THE FORMER ATHletic and Brave star, who managed Mobile last year, has been signed to take hold of the managerial reins at Memphis next season.

BENNY BRIEF, WHO PLAYED WITH the Browns two seasons ago, will be tried by the White Sox next season. He was obtained from Kansas City by Comiskey in the recent draft.

* * *

BILL PURTELL, THE FORMER RED SOX third sacker, now a member of Hugh Jennings' squad, turned down the offer to manage the Denver club in the Western League next season.

* * *

GEORGE STONE, THE VETERAN ST. Louis outfielder, once rated the best hitter in the American League, wants to re-enter the game as an umpire. Stone will probably be signed to a minor league for next season.

M'GRAW DENIES MANY RUMORS OF GIANT CHANGES

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants has returned to his desk in the Fifth Avenue building offices of the club to begin work on the reconstruction of a championship entry for 1915. Since the close of the season New York's popular manager has been visiting in Baltimore.

McGraw says that as yet his plans for next season are somewhat vague. He has decided to forget all his earlier ideas of an exhibition tour to the Pacific coast in search of exposition pelf. Marlin, Tex., will as usual be the scene of the Giants' earliest conditioning exercises. Secretary John B. Foster is in command of the exhibition bookings and has almost completed his schedule. The team will return from Texas by way of New Orleans, playing a week in that city, and will follow the accustomed route home through the Southern States and Atlantic seaboard.

McGraw characterizes as the most idle gossip the many rumors that have associated veteran Giants with proposed trades since the close of the season.

NO DEALS ARE ON.

"I have made no propositions to rival managers or club presidents," said he. "I do not deny that there are players with other clubs that would look good to me in New York uniforms. I feel confident that I shall be able with a few changes to benefit my team greatly. Perhaps at the annual meeting of the National League I may try to effect some trades. But in the meantime I am not advertising the fact.

"I haven't bought Heine Zimmerman—at least not in the last week or two—and probably I never shall. You see," continued McGraw, "I am confronted just now with the problem of getting rid of rather than acquiring players. I have so many athletes on my hands I know scarcely half of them. Probably forty-five or more are on our reserve. It will take a lot of serious thought to pare down to a business working basis. With my surplus I hope to be able to retrench in some fitting manner."

While holidaying McGraw has kept in close touch with the politics of the game. He is of the opinion that the Federal League menace has passed.

SAY FEDS ARE DEAD.

"Gilmore and his crowd are as good as buried now," said McGraw, "and for the life of me I cannot understand why the National League is fussing with Weeghman. Ban Johnson has the right dope. Organized baseball should let the whole crew sink together.

"Down in Baltimore it is realized that the jig is up. Those in touch with the city admit it. The press of that city, however, is sullen and covers its disappointment with innuendoes of a dreary outlook for the International League when the outlaw cause is ended. Personally I am of the opinion that the Federal League promoters are simply whistling to keep up their courage. They have been hit too hard financially to recover and are stalling along in the hope of some sort of leniency at the hands of organized baseball. Personally I cannot see where consideration should be shown to any one who tried to wreck years of painful effort in the uplift of the national game."

DOESN'T FAVOR LIMIT.

If McGraw's opinion counts the New York Nationals will not favor any minimum roster limit for the season of 1915. It is said that the American League favors a new rule limiting to twenty the number of players on each major league club if the National League will co-operate along the same lines.

"Such radical legislation to go into effect immediately would be a great hardship on most of the energetic club owners," declared McGraw. "It would be a rank injustice to compel any owner to sacrifice a lot of men for whom he had expended thousands of dollars through purchase and draft."

Fenno Five Ready to Arrange Games

The Fenno Five basketball team will be represented again this year by a first class clean playing five, as in previous years, and games are desired with the best teams in the State. This team has always been among the top-notchers at the indoor game and the prospects of another good year are very bright. "Bill" Huddleston will be captain and play right forward. Bill Alexander and John Dickey, formerly of the Roxbury Athletics, will take care of the other forward position, while Bob Allen, the star centre of the 1911 team, and "Win" Karlson, last year's crack pivot man, will fight it out for the position of centre. As backs the team will have "Tommy" Murphy, "Okie" O'Connor and Charley Foster. As in previous seasons, the team will be managed by Frank W. Johnson, Mattapan.

CHASING THE PIGSKIN

IN four games of football this season, including next Saturday's contest in the Yale bowl, Harvard will have played to the stupendous total of more than 155,000 spectators.

The last world's series of four games in baseball between the Athletics and Braves drew a total of 111,009 paid attendance.

In other words, four big games of football outdrew four big games of baseball by nearly 50,000.

The receipts of the four Harvard games will reach approximately $300,000.

WHAT the game of football would draw if the general public really became interested in it requires considerable imagination. For it must be remembered that football is not yet a game for the general public. It is a college game. It is patronized almost wholly by college men (graduates and undergraduates), their families and their best girls.

GRADUATE Manager Fred Moore, of Harvard, recently said he believed that if it were possible to take care of everybody that would turn out to see a football game between Harvard and Yale, if played in the neighborhood of Boston, nearly 300,000 people would gather to see the battle.

OF course a football game between Harvard and Yale is an extraordinary sporting event. The Harvard Stadium, with its extra seats, can only accomodate about 41,000. Thousands of applications for seats are turned down every other year because no more than 41,000 can be taken care of at the Stadium.

YALE has built a Bowl capable of seating (with the extra seats that had to be erected), about 71,000. If the Bowl had been built to seat 100,000 it would have easily been filled provided the public had a chance to secure tickets. As it is, practically only Harvard and Yale men and their families will see next Saturday's game.

FOOTBALL, of course, has been made popular with college men almost entirely through publicity given it by the newspapers. If the newspapers dropped the game of football as now played by the universities and began giving the same space to soccer football, the soccer game would in the course of a few years become just as popular as the regular game now is and the regular game would sink to the insignificance of the present game of soccer.

This seems absurd, but it is just as true as any statement ever made.

IT is now said that Harvard looks with more favor on the idea of numbering the players. It may be that next year the Crimson and the Blue will fall into line and that, of course, means that every college in the country and every schoolboy team as well would promptly do likewise. Then it would be possible for the spectators to know who is making the runs and tackles—something very few of them know nowadays until they read the Sunday newspapers.

WITH the idea of numbering the players generally adopted will come the popularizing of the game with the general public.

IT may be argued that the colleges (some of them) do not want football to become a game for the general public. It is a foolish argument. The colleges want as many spectators at a game as htey can get.

This year several institutions have even gone so far as to employ a press agent.

Even dear old Harvard does not hesitate to ask the newspapers to print certain information relating to the time a game will start, matters concerning the accommodations for a game, and so on.

WALTER Camp, the dean of football in this country, is of the opinion that the game is now well nigh perfect; that few if any changes in the rules remain to be made; that the public is now satisfied with the game as perfected.

SUCH being the case it only remains to popularize the sport in the right way and soon the colleges can all build bowls capable of seating 70,000 to 100,000.

Ten Races on Card for Dorchester Club

Ten races with twenty-five of the fastest horses in Dorchester will be the card of events of the Dorchester Driving Club at the Franklin Field Speedway, Dorchester on Saturday. Sister Patch, with William H. Young, Kellerville Lad, with Thomas Griffin, and Charley King, with A. T. Wheelock, will constitute the fastest pacing event to be seen in New England this Fall.

The summary:

Class A, Pace—Sister Patch, br.m. (William H. Young); Kellerville Lad, b.g. (Thomas J. Griffin); Charley King, b.g. (A. T. Wheelock).
Class B, Pace—Sunshine, b.m. (James Lynch); Teddy Bingen, b.g. (Fred Bellows).
Class C, Trot—Bingen Light, bl. g. (William Douse); Jack Bingen, b.g. (Riley G. Crosby).

Can't Keep a Good Stevens Man Down

In the second quarter of the New York University-Stevens football game las. Saturday Referee Ike Saunders ruled a Stevens lineman out of the game for slugging. Soon after the opening of the second half a man with strips of adhesive tape almost covering his face was sent from the Stevens bench to replace the left guard. This man played particularly well for a substitute, and it was discovered after the game that the bandaged face was just a ruse to get the disqualified player back in the game.

HARRY VARDON COMING FOR BIG GOLF TOUR HERE

The invasion of America next Spring by those two eminent British golfers, Harry Vardon and James Baird, has caused somewhat of a stir among the local followers of the game.

On account of the war, the game in England has lost in interest for the time being. This is given as the principal reason for the visit of these two experts.

Vardon played a number of games here a year ago, when he was accompanied by Edward Ray, also an English expert, the two being defeated by the sensational Francis Ouimet. Vardon has captured the English open championship six times and is the present title holder, while Baird has won the honor five times. The tour of these distinguished players will include the principal cities of this country and quite a number of matches are already under contemplation.

B. C. High Has Hard Hockey Schedule

Manager John Moriarty of the Boston College High hockey team has completed a long and attractive schedule of games for his team. Five players of last season's team are available and a championship seven is looked for. The schedule follows:

December 30, Melrose at Melrose.
January 4, English High at Columbus avenue grounds; 11, Cambridge High and Latin at Arena; 14, Malden at Malden; 16, Stoneham at Columbus avenue grounds; 21, Brookline High at Brookline; 23, St. John's at Arena; 25, Rindge at Cambridge; 27, B. L. S. at Columbus avenue grounds; 29, Mechanic Arts High at Columbus avenue grounds.
February 2, Winthrop at Winthrop; 4, Revere at Columbus avenue grounds; 6, St. John's at Danvers; 8, Wakefield at Wakefield; 10, Waltham at Waltham; 12, Charlestown at Charlestown; 16, Somerville at Somerville; 17, Huntington School at Arena; 19, Belmont at Belmont; 27, St. Mark's at Southboro.
March 3, Newton at Newton.

Cardinals to Retain Huggins as Manager

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18.—The St. Louis Nationals will train next Spring at Hot Wells, Tex., a suburb of San Antonio, it was announced by Schuyler Britton, president of the club.

President Britton said he had come to terms with Miller Huggins, manager of the team last season, and that Huggins soon would sign a contract to manage next season.

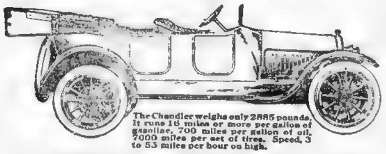
Pride of Ownership
CHANDLER $1595
LIGHT-WEIGHT SIX



The Chandler weighs only 2885 pounds. It runs 16 miles or more per gallon of gasoline, 700 miles per gallon of oil, 7000 miles per set of tires. Speed, 3 to 53 miles per hour on high.

Don't you want to be proud of the new car you buy?—not merely satisfied with it, but satisfied and proud of it?

Chandler owners are proud of their cars.

They are proud of the car that proved a high-grade six of medium size could be built to sell for less than $2000.

They are proud of the car that changed the whole trend of the automobile industry toward light sixes.

They are proud because this really marvelous motor is of Chandler design and Chandler make, and not a common stock motor found in various kinds and grades of cars.

They are proud of the grace of Chandler body design, and the deep lasting beauty of Chandler finish; proud of the comfortable roominess of the car and luxury of its cushions.

They are proud of the economy of the Chandler.

Even the rich man is proud to have found out that he can get everything in power and comfort and luxury at half the price he formerly paid.

Genuine pride of ownership is worth a lot, but it isn't figured in on the Chandler selling price.

We have the new 1915 models now, ready for delivery. Five-passenger touring car or roadster, $1595. A profit-sharing price made possible only by the unparalleled mechanical success of the car,—the manufacturers' freedom from mechanical errors and expensive experimental work.

We shall be glad to have you drive the Chandler and decide for yourself.

Helen and Warren Take a Lesson in the New Dances and Surprise Themselves

Copyright, 1914, International News Service

"YOU'LL come to see if you like it anyway, won't you?" Mrs. Dalton had urged, and Helen had reluctantly acquiesced. She was rather anxious to join the dancing class, but, afraid of what Warren would say, she had held off giving their names to the committee of which Mrs. Dalton was the head.

Helen knew that if she and Warren were to accept any invitations for the Winter it would be absolutely necessary to learn to dance. Last year, she, as well as Warren, had laughed at the dance craze as a fad of the moment, but this year she had been forced to admit that all the new dances were holding their own and were more popular than ever.

Mrs. Dalton, who was the president of the Current Events Club to which Helen belonged, had engaged a dancing teacher, and Helen had been asked to belong to the class that was forming. At first she refused absolutely, but on second thought she had resolved to accept.

Mrs. Dalton had suggested her coming with Warren to look on and then withdrawing her name if she decided that they would not care to come, and Helen, acting upon the impulse of the moment, was hoping that Warren might become interested after he had seen the others make fools of themselves, as he said.

"I don't know what the world's coming to," growled Warren as he and Helen turned into a door with the number over the doorway and went up a flight of narrow stairs. "I've a good mind to turn around and go home; this doesn't look like the kind of a place I'd like to have any one see me coming out of."

Helen, anxious to smooth matters, hastened to reassure him.

"You see, dear, Mrs. Dalton had to take what she could get, and as the dancing teacher had no quarters of his own, and none of us had a house large enough for the class, Mrs. Dalton thought this would do. And it isn't very expensive, either."

"Shouldn't think it would be; looks like the quarters behind a barroom."

HELEN TRIES TO MAKE WARREN MORE CHEERFUL

"Oh, Warren, you know that isn't true. I wish you would try to make the best of things."

"Yes, after you've dragged me over here, I suppose there's nothing else to do. Come on; I guess this is the way."

The sound of music was coming from one of the rooms at the side, and a moment later they were stepping into the room, and Mrs. Dalton was hurrying across the floor to meet them.

"How do you do, Mr. Curtis; I'm awfully glad you decided to come. Just sit down anywhere and I'll bring Mr. Fleming over as soon as I can. My dear, he's fine," turning to Helen; he's been doing some fancy dancing for us with his cousin, who has promised to help him with the men, isn't that nice?"

Mrs. Dalton hurried back across the room to the crowd gathered around Mr. Fleming, and Helen and Warren sat down on some chairs that were placed along the wall. A victroia, which had been stopped as they entered, was now started again, and Mrs. Dalton began dancing with a tall, very thin young man.

"That must be Mr. Fleming," whispered Helen, and then, "I didn't know Mrs. Dalton could dance as well as that."

Warren growled out something unintelligible and Helen began to be afraid that they would have to give it up after all. Secretly she longed to be able to dance some of the fascinating steps that Mr. Fleming was teaching Mrs. Dalton. If Warren would only get interested they might both learn. After a minute or two Mrs. Dalton stopped before them, flushed and rather breathless.

"I want you to meet Mrs. Curtis, Mr. Fleming, and Mr. Curtis; they are both planning to join our dancing class—at least I hope so. Oh, excuse me a moment, here are Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, well I surely didn't expect you people here tonight."

"Nor I," said Mrs. Stevens coming over to Helen and slipping her hand inside her arm. "But here we are. I told Mr. Stevens he simply had to come and I guess he came just out of curiosity. Anyway, I want to learn to dance, and here I am."

They all laughed. "Well I don't see any use of waiting any longer," said Mrs. Dalton, "suppose we begin, Mr. Fleming."

Mr. Fleming signified his willingness, and the scattered group sat down in the chairs along the wall. Mr. Stevens came over to Warren and grinned sheepishly.

WARREN TAKES A DIFFERENT VIEW

"I feel like a fool, Curtis," he remarked, "like going to the dentist's isn't it?"

"Oh, I don't know," said Warren, much to Helen's amazement, "I suppose we must keep up with the times."

Mrs. Stevens squeezed Helen's hand and laughed.

"I don't understand it," whispered Helen, "I had a terrible time getting him here."

A young girl who couldn't have been more than eighteen put a new record on the Victroia, and then asked Mrs. Dalton's husband if he would try it for her. At the same time Mr. Fleming came over to Helen and asked her if she would try.

"But I don't know the faintest thing about it," protested Helen. "I wish you would try some one else first."

"We're all in the same boat," said Mrs. Stevens, encouragingly. "Go on—you'll never learn if you're afraid to try."

Helen blushed miserably. She felt terribly embarrassed, and, with the eyes of every one present upon her, she rose and stepped out on the floor.

"You walk as though you wouldn't have any trouble one-stepping," said Mr. Fleming, encouragingly. "I noticed you when you came into the room. You say you've never tried it?"

"No, I've only watched it. It seems incredible, I know, but my husband doesn't do any of the new dances, and so I never learned.'

"Well, simply follow me and the music, and I think we'll get along."

Helen fell into the swing immediately, leaving everything to her partner and following his lead. In spite of the fact that she felt a little stiff, she enjoyed herself exceedingly.

"It isn't so very hard," she said a little breathlessly; "am I doing all right."

"Just fine, you're a little stiff, but aside from that I would never believe that you hadn't danced before."

Helen could not help feeling gratified. She was the kind of a woman who needs to be drawn out, but having lost her first reserve is more fascinating than women who attract men at first sight. She beamed upon Mr. Fleming as he finally released her.

"It was splendid, simply wonderful," she said enthusiastically. Her hair was curling up from her face in damp little ringlets, and her cheeks were pink from the exercise. She was very pretty at the moment and Warren, who had been watching her closely, gave her a sudden look as she sat down beside him.

"Dear, did I dance very badly?" She asked, tucking in a stray lock of hair and glancing at him sideways.

"You were fine," said Mr. Stevens, leaning across Warren, "look at Emily, though. I don't imagine she's having the time of her life by any means." Mrs. Stevens was trying to imitate Mr. Fleming's steps as best she could, but from her perspiring countenance she was not having a very good time. She gave Helen a despairing glance as she passed, and Helen could not help laughing.

A moment later Mrs. Dalton came up with little Miss Graham. "It's your turn, Mr. Curtis," she said laughingly, "let's see if you can do as well as your wife." And before he knew it Warren found himself on the floor with the small girl as partner.

Later, when they were all leaving, Helen turned to Warren impulsively.

"Didn't we have a good time, dear? Mrs. Stevens says I did the one-step better than any one else there."

"Don't think I was so very bad myself," said Warrent complacently. After a few lessons I ought to dance as well as any one. What do you think?"

WOMEN OF GAY COURT PLUNGED INTO MOURNING.

How the war has robbed queens, duchesses and princesses of husbands, brothers and children, while others are nursing wounded and crippled men of their families.

IN NEXT SUNDAY'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

A Phonetic Mishap

A gentleman who had married his cook was giving a dinner party, and between the courses the good lady sat with her hands laid on the tablecloth. Suddenly the hum of conversation ceased, and in the silence that followed a young man on the right of his hostess said pleasantly, "Awful pause!" "Yes, they may be," said the one-time cook with heightened color, "and yours would be like them if you had done half my work!"

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR MUST BE ATTACKED UNDER THE SKIN

It has been said by one of the world's greatest authorities that hair is bound to grow out coarser and stiffer after each removal unless it is devitalized. The only way to devitalize hair is to attack it under the skin as well as on the skin. To accomplish this result you must use De Miracle, the original liquid hair remover, because it alone contains certain ingredients which give it the power to rob hair of its vitality. Therefore, its use is an absolute guarantee against coarse, bristly growths.

Remember, you are not asked to buy De Miracle on a mere promise of your money being refunded if you are not satisfied. When you buy De Miracle you get the only depilatory that has a binding guarantee in each package which entitles you to your money if it fails. Be wise, insist on De Miracle, the original liquid hair remover. Others are imitations—refuse them.

De Miracle can be purchased in 50c and $1.00 bottles at all good drug and department stores or will be mailed in plain sealed wrapper, on receipt of price, direct by De Miracle Chemical Co., Park Ave. and 129th St., New York.

Aunt Sally's Advice to Beauty Seekers

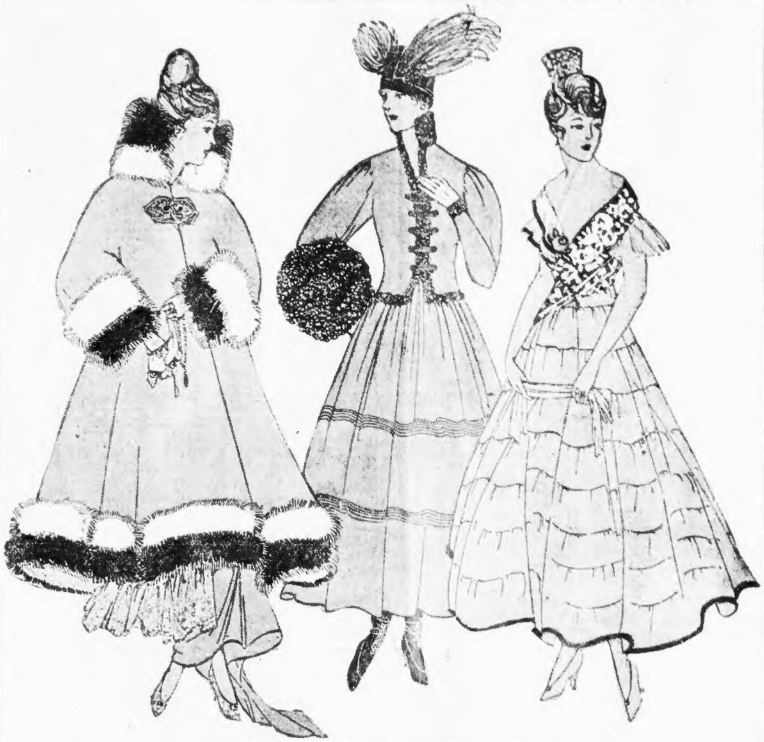
Red Nose. The nose is a more delicate organ than most people imagine. It should be touched as little as possible. For undue redness the treatment recommended in following paragraph will be found effective. Apply without rubbing.

Muddy Skin. The sanest, safest and surest method of giving a clear, healthy, transparent appearance to the complexion is to apply ordinary mercolized wax every night for from one to two weeks. This wax, obtainable at any drug store (one ounce is sufficient), actually takes off a bad complexion by gently and gradually absorbing the thin veil of surface skin. The new skin then in evidence is as fresh and velvety as a young girl's. The wax is applied like cold cream and washed off mornings.

Wrinkles. A harmless lotion made as follows has been found very effective in cases of wrinkles and crowsfeet: Powdered saxolite, 1 oz. dissolved in witch hazel, ½ pt. Bathe the face in this daily for awhile.—Woman's Realm. ADVERTISEMENT

Crinolines---1830---1914

(REPUBLISHED BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH HARPER'S BAZAR, THE OLDEST AND GREATEST WOMAN'S MAGAZINE)



(From the November Number of Harper's Bazar)

A REAL pussy-cat cloak—big and full and comfy—straight from the house of Drecoll, is shown at the left. Enveloped in its voluminous folds the wearer is almost lost. Only her eyes peep out from above the bushy black and white fox collar—the magpie combination in furs being one of the new notes of the Drecoll collection. Straight and, oh, so full, the mantle hangs from this furry collar almost to the bottom of the gown, and always flaring. And as if to accentuate this spring at the bottom a wide band of the two furs is added. The tiny hands find their way out of two great cuffs—muff-like pieces of fur—which extend almost to the elbow of the big, baggy sleeves. An antique Russian silver ornament fastens a cloak which might have been fashioned for the ex-Empress Eugenie.

Since Russia and France have joined against the enemy, the French couturiers do not hesitate to glean their inspiration from the land of snow and beautiful women. From the tip of her turban to the toes of her boots the little lady in the middle is Russian. The material is a blue cloth, the military blue color, and the trimmings are black astrachan, the fur the Russian officers use to edge their capes. This fur forms the collar, high and flaring, but open in the front, outlines either side of the front of the tight little jacket and edges the tiny flaring basque. But the newest feature of the jacket is the leg-o'-mutton sleeve—the real, old-time, full sleeve gathered into the normal armhole. The skirt, full and trimmed with braid, displays the patent-leather Russian boots.

Ruffle upon ruffle, each rippling forth in billowly fulness, makes one believe that the quaint little skirt of coral pink taffeta at the right must have been cherished all these years in the hidden recesses of a chest belonging to an 1830 belle. At least Weeks has copied to the last detail the skirt of that period. There are slight modifications in the corsage, though the flat shoulder effect is just as pronounced. And it is achieved by a sash of black and silver brocade ribbon which twines its way over one shoulder and across the hip. Two ruffles of the taffeta outlined in sable are laid flat over the other shoulder, the flare coming well below the top of the arm. A line of sable marks the bottom edge of the skirt, which is short enough to display the turn of the ankle.

Do You Know That—

The population of Austria embraces a greater number of races, distinct in origin and language, than that of any other European country except Russia. The Slavs are the most numerous race, amounting to nearly 42 per cent. of the whole population. They are, however, split up into a number of peoples or tribes, differing greatly in language, religion, culture and manners, so that their seeming preponderance in the empire is thus lost.

This is the day of English young admirals. In the First Fleet the oldest officer, Vice-Admiral Sir Douglas Gamble, is fifty-seven, and the youngest, Rear-Admiral Sir David Beatty, forty-three. The average age is about fifty-two years. This affords a contrast to the custom in many navies which employ only admirals of between sixty and seventy years of age.

The old steel gallows in use for many years in the county jail at Allegheny, Pa., after being draped in colored silks and garlanded with flowers, has been converted into a swing for school children.

A remarkable sight was witnessed in the little village of Barton, N. Y., at the funeral of Mr. Joseph Brown, deacon for forty years of the local Methodist chapel. The funeral was attended by 210 of his relatives, all of whom reside in the village.

A gold engagement ring, set with a diamond and containing an inscription, was recently found tightly fastened round the neck of a partridge shot near Gaschowitz, Bohemia.

In Russia school pupils are allowed to choose between learning French and German, and 70 per cent. choose German.

About $40,000,000 is given away in charity every year in London.

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

Business has not been good to Blinks of late. A few nights ago, instead of retiring to bed, he spent some time pacing up and down his bedroom, evidently worried by some trouble. At last his wife woke up.

"What's the matter?" she asked.

"I have a heavy bill to pay to Blank tomorrow, and I am worrying because I haven't the money."

"Oh," she answered comfortingly, "you get into bed and let Blank do the walking about and the worrying."

EASY WAY TO KEEP BABY'S SKIN HEALTHY

How to Heal Skin Eruptions and Prevent Their Return.

Very few babies grow to childhood without having some sort of skin trouble. It may be only chafing, scalding, or tooth rash. On the other hand, it may be the worst kind of itching eczema or ringworm.

When I find a little one suffering like that I always advise the mother to do this: Bathe the sick skin with warm water and resinol soap, pat dry with a soft towel, and put on very gently a thin coating of resinol ointment. She can dust a little good talcum powder over the ointment if she likes. This almost never fails to give INSTANT relief, and a few such treatments generally heal the trouble.

Bathing daily with resinol soap is the best way I know to keep baby's skin free from such irritations and eruptions. It is very pure, soothing and healing. All druggists sell resinol ointment and resinol soap. For free sample, write to Dept. 36-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Her Husband's Widow

A Thrilling Story of Romance, Adventure and Intrigue, in Which a Beautiful Young Bride Plays the Part of the Heroine

HE looked at her with a cold, cruel smile.

She met his eyes defiantly. "I haven't any crimes to conceal," she declared, boldly.

"No? I seem to remember an awkward little transaction at Kimberley. I never quite understood it myself. Something about diamonds. I had forgotten it until the other day when I met a man inquiring after Jenny Haston."

She stopped, clutching at the railing and turned ghastly pale.

"You—you brute!" she cried, "to threaten me. There is nothing in that affair—nothing criminal."

"Well, the man may have been mistaken. He is still inquiring into the matter, I believe."

"Let us sit down," said Mrs. Melas, in a faltering voice.

They sat down on a bench. Sir Ralph whistled a popular air. Jenny's head had sunk forward. He could hear her labored breathing.

She looked up at last and shrugged her shoulders. "I don't see how it would help me if I did marry you," she remarked.

"Only that a man can't give evidence against his own wife."

They looked at each other, a quiet, triumphant smile on his face, an expression of mingled fear and contempt on hers.

"Look here, Ralph," she said desperately. "I don't think I can marry you straight. At least, I want time to think about it. I've got more pluck than you imagine, and I'm not going to be bullied. Kimberley is a long way off, and, after all, you were as deep in that business as I was, if not deeper."

She thought he paled a little at that, but his eyes continued to meet hers unflinchingly.

"What you want, I suppose, is money. Oh! you look relieved when I say that. Well, I'm prepared to lend you some—till I make up my mind. Will that keep you quiet?"

JENNY PROMISES TO LEND SIR RALPH $25,000

The baronet chuckled. "You are a business-like woman, Jenny," he congratulated her. "If you want more time to consider my offer I should be glad of some temporary accommodation to tide me over a crisis. Merely a loan, of course—and on good security," he added, waving his cigar.

"How much do you want?" she asked in a low tone.

Sir Ralph wanted all that she had, but he had in reality the vaguest idea of her resources. He turned to consider his own immediate needs. He must square the editor of the Keyhole, he must be prepared to refund certain sums "carried forward" to the account of another syndicate which by some oversight no one had registered or incorporated.

"Lend me $25,000 then, there's a good girl," he suggested at a venture.

The woman winced. "That will make an enormous difference to me," she sighed. "I suppose I must let you have it."

"I would like it today, if possible," he said, trying to restrain his eagerness.

"Very well. Come back with me to the hotel and I will give you the check."

Jenny left him in the vestibule and ran upstairs. A few minutes later she returned and handed him an envelope. He had the grace to restrain his curiosity and not to glance at its contents. He thrust it in his pocket and looked at her shamefacedly.

"It's very decent of you, Jenny," he remarked. "I know it seems a shabby trick to take your money—but the fact is, I'm in a devilish tight corner. This just sees me over the stile. Of course, you'll get your money back all right."

Outside the hotel he called a cab and drove at once to the city offices of the [illegible] Syndicate. A glance at the [illegible] revived his drooping spirits and completely restored his self-complacency. He found the anything but palatial offices tenanted only by Eldsley, who at once inquired, "Have you pulled it off?"

"I've got some money," replied Sir Ralph.

"I've got something that may turn into money," said Eldsley. "I've been searching the registers at Somerset House."

CHAPTER XXV.

ELDSLEY pointed to a document spread out on the desk before him. Sir Ralph recognized it at once as the copy of a certificate of marriage.

He picked it up and glanced across the vertical columns. It certified that Victor Steele, sergeant, had been married by license to Leslie Morne, spinster, at the Register Office, Hounslow, on October 4, 19—, the witnesses being Sergeants Terence O'Rourke and David Gilchrist.

The baronet gave a prolonged whistle and laid the paper down again. He thrust his thumbs into his waistcoat pocket and looked at his friend.

"How's that, umpire?" asked Mr. Eldsley, with much self-complacency. "It settles Steele's game with the widow, doesn't it?"

Sir Ralph thought that it settled a much bigger game, but with admirable presence of mind he did not say so. Indeed, after his wont, he proceeded to discount the value of his friend's discovery.

"I don't know that it does, after all," he said doubtfully. "The girl may be dead or divorced—though that's unlikely, I admit. Besides, it doesn't follow that because Mrs. Melas can't marry him she will marry me."

"Hang it all, Gravaston," cried the other man disgustedly, "I never knew such a chap to throw cold water on another fellow's schemes! Here have I been to the trouble of putting a spoke in your rival's wheel, and you don't so much as say thank me!"

"Well, if my thanks are any good to you, dear boy, I'm sure you're welcome to them—or even to some liquid refreshment. But before we go, what about squaring that rag? I've got a few thousand together—never mind how—and it may with economy just tide us over this crisis. Suppose you ring up Sneedle and ask him to step round here at once."

"He'll think we want to give him a thrashing."

AUTO NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

It is estimated that of the nearly 70,000 persons who will witness the Harvard-Yale football game on Saturday at least 40,000 will make the journey by motor car and New Haven will probably harbor the largest collection of automobiles that has ever been brought together at one and the same time.

Thousands of Boston motorists are planning to make the trip and Friday and Saturday next will see many bonnets pointed in the direction of the Yale bowl. Most of the drivers will leave Boston Friday morning, stopping at some convenient place over night—usually Springfield, Hartford or New London—and completing the journey Saturday morning.

There are two principal routes from Boston to New Haven, one via Springfield and the other via New London. The Springfield route is approximately 150 miles and is considered to be the best of the two. The trip via New Haven is slightly longer than the Springfield route, but it probably will not be as crowded.

The Yale officials have made provisions for the parking of a large number of motor cars and there should be no difficulty in finding a suitable place to store the car while the game is in progress.

Rubber manufacturers, planters and importers are requested to join in a protest to the United States Department of State, asking that steps be taken against England's action of declaring rubber contraband of war. The Rubber Club of America and the Rubber Trade Association are preparing a protest of this kind, and tire manufacturers are expected to assist in the movement.

Inventors are to have a show all their own at the Grand Central Palace in New York during the week beginning December 12. It will be known as the International Exposition of Inventions, and the inventors exhibiting the children of their brains will attempt to get into touch with men of capital who will adopt them. The automobile section threatens numerous surprises.

For the Sake of Your Own Pocketbook READ ADVERTISEMENTS CAREFULLY

This Is a Day When Economy Is Necessary. The Big Merchants Realize It, and Their Buyers Are Hunting Bargains as Never Before. You Can Save Money by Shopping Carefully in the Advertising Columns.

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company.

The old-fashioned woman did her own shopping.

It was very inconvenient shopping, walking on foot with a basket on her arm, searching from store to store for bargains, not knowing WHAT she would find or WHERE she would find it.

But it was worth while. For the old-fashioned woman managed to keep down the price of living by paying attention to bargains, and thus encouraging the competent merchants able to produce bargains and distance their competitors.

The woman of today can do her buying as carefully as did the "old-fashioned woman," and she can do it infinitely more comfortably.

Not for the merchants' sake, but FOR YOUR SAKE, we urge you to do careful SHOPPING IN THE ADVERTISING COLUMNS.

You need no longer walk from shop to shop, and from counter to counter, looking for what you want, and investigating prices.

The merchants in their advertisements put the prices and the opportunities before you every day.

You can sit at home in the evening, read through the advertising columns for what you want, read CAREFULLY the different offerings that appeal to you, make memoranda and next day GO STRAIGHT TO THE SPOT AND FIND WHAT YOU WANT.

At all times the reading of advertisements is an important work for the woman who strives to aid her husband through economy.

At this time the work is more important than ever, for the times are hard for many of us, AND MERCHANTS ARE MAKING EFFORTS SUCH AS THEY NEVER MADE BEFORE IN THE SEARCH FOR BARGAINS.

A few women realize what great organizations are maintained by the big merchants TO DO THE PUBLIC SHOPPING.

A big store thinks nothing of paying an unusually intelligent man or woman ten or twenty thousand dollars a year, and even more, to watch the supplies and buy at the cheapest possible prices.

The salary of twenty thousand dollars seems big for a buyer—but it is small when you realize that such a buyer may bring in, at a wonderfully low price, millions of dollars' worth of goods.

If you watch carefully the advertisements of the merchants YOU GET THE BENEFIT OF THE WORK DONE BY THE HIGHEST PRICED BUYERS.

They are shopping for you.

The merchants, competing in the open market, put before you every day their special prices, their special inducements. STUDY THEM CAREFULLY.

When you go out to do your shopping you should know just exactly where you are going, what you are looking for, and what bargains you have in mind.

Try for awhile the results of careful shopping in the advertisements and careful buying in the stores, and see how much you can reduce THE COST OF LIVING.

When you go to the store you can say to the first directing person that you want to "see such and such a thing that you saw advertised in the Boston AMERICAN yesterday." You will be directed promptly and save time.

Shopping is no longer hard work or slow work, and the woman who neglects it neglects an important duty.

Some News and Some Newspapers

"The reported loss of the Audacious must still be accepted with some reservation. But, if it is true, it is one more augury of the doom of the monster battleship."—The New York Evening Post.

How long after the fact was the Evening Post still accepting "with some reservation" the incoming of the new century, or the election of Wilson?

It is curious with what caution some newspapers admit the accuracy of news which they failed to publish while it was news. On the day when the AMERICAN published the photograph of the sinking Audacious, our neighbor, the Globe, printed a long interview with the surgeon of the Olympic denying that anything of the sort had happened. The same day the New York World also gave its space up to trying to prove that the dreadnought never was destroyed. The latter further rounded out its able efforts for the assistance of the British censorship by getting from its London correspondent this explanation of its failure to get the true story of the sinking of the ship:

> "Re your cable inquiry of yesterday. It refers to news which we were not and are not permitted to send."

That is precisely the sort of news which a well-edited newspaper prints.

Charity Should Always Begin at Home

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I read an editorial on the last page of the AMERICAN today and it impressed me very much. It said that instead of sending presents to the poor children for Christmas in Belgium why not give it to the poor American children. After reading this article, I came to the conclusion to take your advice. I have $8.50 at present I can spare and I am going to save it until this Christmas. I am going to buy toys for the poor kids whose hard-working parents cannot afford to give them. Instead of helping the starving Belgians I am going to help the starving Americans. By Christmas I will have about $35 to spare, and this I intend to give to at least fourteen families (all pure Americans) for a happy Christmas. Let every reader of this article do the same and then America will have "A Merry Christmas." G. R. S.

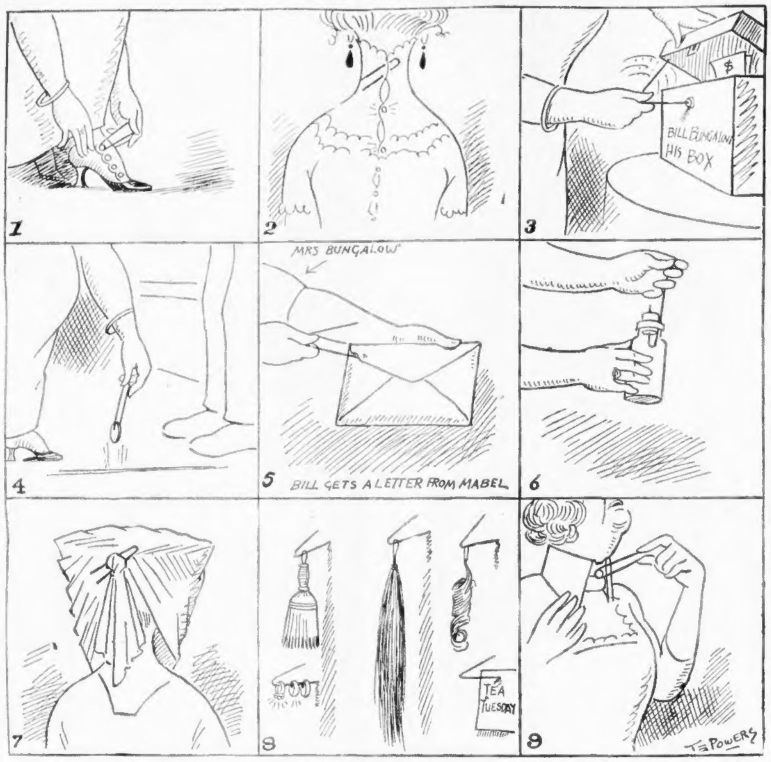
It's Mrs. Bungalow's Tool Chest

By T. E. POWERS

Copyright, 1914, by International News Service



This was all the space we could give Mr. Powers. He said he could fill a whole page with illustrations of what a woman could do with a hairpin. Sorry, but we only had room for nine examples: 1—The hairpin makes a handy button-hook. 2—You can't beat it for holding up those high collars. 3—No jimmy like a hairpin for opening poor Bungalow's tin safe. 4—And when a man drops a nickel in a street car he's helpless, but a woman——. 5—Doesn't a hairpin slip neatly under the flap of an envelope addressed to hubby in a feminine hand? 6—And for getting out a cork you can't beat it. 7—For holding a veil a hairpin is just the thing. 8—Who needs a hatrack? 9—The hairpin tames the starchiest collar.

But when a man tries it—drop that hairpin! What do you know about machinery?

How Helen Helped

CHAPTER XIV.—THE END OF THE PLOT

As Frank helped Paul Van Buren's father back into his office after Paul's confession of forgery, the old man asked him to sit down.

"Frank," said he, "do you drink as much as you used to?"

"No," replied Frank. "I don't drink at all."

"What made you stop?" asked Mr. Van Buren.

"Several things," answered Frank. "I began to realize what a chump I was making of myself; the opportunity I was letting slip by, and the main reason was a talk I had with a certain young lady."

"Who is the young lady?" asked the old gentleman in his blunt way.

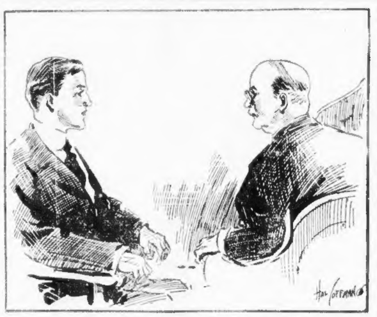
"That young lady you were just talking to outside, Helen Hawthorne."

"Are you going to be married, Frank."

"Yes; I hope so, just as soon as it can be arranged."

"Have you saved any money?"

At this Frank looked out of the window for some moments, and finally answered, "No, not a cent."



"Have You Saved Any Money?"

The old gentleman rubbed his glasses and looked at Frank thoughtfully. "You've been getting a pretty fair salary the last few years, haven't you?"

"I have," answered Frank.

"Well, do you think you could save any money, say, enough to get married on, if you were appointed general manager of this concern at a higher salary?"

At this Frank suddenly felt as if the whole world had changed and a large gate had opened into a sunlit garden marked opportunity, and he was still contemplating it when Mr. Van Buren answered for him:

"Well, I think you can, so come in and see me in the morning and we can talk over a few details."

Nowadays, if you happen to call at Frank Deming's home you probably would see a kindly old gentleman, who had stopped in for a few minutes on his way home, romping around the house or out in the garden with a rosy-cheeked young man by the name of Frank Deming, Jr., and if you looked a bit closer you probably would see Helen and Frank standing close by laughing and watching it all.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

PULLMAN PORTERS IN CHARGE ON OTHER LINES THAN B. & M.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I wish to thank you for putting before the public the article which you have today in reference to the Pullman Company. I have for some time wondered how the public stood for this outrage—displacing the conductor from a position and giving the porter entire charge. Why not give the conductor an opportunity to make a living?

You mention the Boston & Maine Pullman cars as being run by porters. If you will take a trip on various other lines, among them the New York, New Haven & Hartford, you will find that there also are porters running the cars. Much could be said on this subject, and you have started the good work.

Yours for Justice,

KEEP A WINTER GARDEN IN YOUR HOME.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Make your living room cheerful with plants and flowers during the Winter. It is so easy to save a little of the beauty and joy of your garden that it seems almost like throwing something away not to. The hardiest flower we have is the geranium. It is a plebeian-looking little plant when seen outside in the Summer, but pot it and place it in your window, and it seems to gain something of grace and dignity.

The first injunction for the inside garden is not to coddle the plants. Geraniums stand plenty of fresh air. The earth about them should be kept damp, not flooded; that would only rot the roots. It also must be kept loose and the leaves free from dust, so that the plants may breathe. If stood in a window they should be turned half about every few days so that they may not grow one-sided.

Cuttings may be taken from large plants. They should be taken from what is termed "new growth"; that is, the terminal portions of shoots which have not yet become old and hard. Cut slantwise, plant in sand (ordinary coarse builders' sand) and keep it saturated with water. Pot them off as the roots begin to appear.

The Value That Men Place Upon Women's Clothes

It's for Men That Women Dress—Husbands Are Proud of Wives Who Are Stylish, and the Value They Place Upon Finery Is to Blame for Women's Extravagance

By DOROTHY DIX

It is the custom, when the subject of woman's many weaknesses and inconsistencies is broached, and the question is asked, "Why does she do thus and so?" for man to throw up his hands and answer, "You may search me!"

This is particularly the case when the discussion waxes hot and furious over the fact that the majority of women spend nearly all of their money, and most of their time and brains on clothes.

When you think of it seriously there is nothing on earth more pitiful than that woman's whole horizon should be bounded on the north by a tailor-made frock, on the south by a chiffon evening gown, on the west by a fur coat, and on the east by a Paris hat, and that all the intermediate spaces should be filled in by flubdub ends of finery.

The chief object, aim and ambition of ninety-nine women out of a hundred is clothes. To get clothes women steal and sell their very souls. To get clothes they work their husbands and fathers to death, or plunge them into ruin. Clothes — clothes — clothes! They dwarf every other subject, every other interest in the average woman's mind. Their possession makes one the envied of her sex. Their lack is her bitterest loss. For them she willingly, nay, gladly, sacrifices health and comfort and risks death itself.

The Costly Offering on the Altar of Fashion Is to Please Man

There is no other such unworthy altar on which such a costly offering is daily made, and any one dispassionately viewing the matter may well ask why are women so mad on the subject of dress.

And woman may truly adopt the old Adamite excuse and answer, "The man thou gavest me, HE did it."

Men will deny this. Men will say that the simpler a woman is dressed the more they admire her. They will say that they have long belabored woman for her folly in lacing herself up in tight corsets and perching herself up on French heels, and that they have pointed out to her that the ideal dress for females is a loose, warm garment that hangs from the shoulders, and the proper shoe is a broad, flat-heeled affair that brings the support for the body in the right place. Therefore, they will contend that woman has no right to lay her coronet braids, and puffs, and merry widow hats at their door.

These are fine, fair words, and every man who utters them means them in the abstract. But not for the womankind with whom he associates. That is another pair of sleeves entirely, and it is a solemn and incontrovertible fact that the most ardent advocate of dress reform for women would be caught dead in preference to being seen in public with a lady garbed in the fashion of his theories.

Woman's business in life for centuries has been the study of man. Her whole wellbeing has depended entirely upon pleasing his tastes and whims, and the consensus of the experiences of the whole sex is that man values woman according to her looks, and her looks depend upon the way in which she adorns herself.

A woman may have the wit and wisdom of Aspasia in her head, but if the hair on it is grizzled and cropped short you will see every man turn from her to the brainless little doll whose golden locks are perfumed and coiffured in the latest style.

A woman may have a heart that overflows with tenderness and love and generosity, but if it beats under a frowsy, ill-made frock every man will pass her by for some selfish and narrow lady who is a living fashion plate. A woman may be the most lively and intelligent of companions, but she will scintillate in vain if she appears in public in a gown of the vintage of nineteen hundred and a hat that is a last year's birdnest.

Men who are honest say right out that they like to take women out who are "swell dressers," and that is true whether the woman is a man's own wife or some other man's daughter. Men are proud of wives who are stylish. They like to take them about, whereas a wife who neglects her personal appearance and goes shabby, even when she is animated in so doing by the laudable desire to save her husband's money and help him, soon finds that she is left at home. She doesn't know why, and perhaps the man never admits it to himself, but the real reason is he is ashamed to be seen with a woman who isn't smartly dressed.

It is contended, and with justice, that the Mother Hubbard wrapper in the family circle is responsible for much of the divorce evil, for man, who is enamored of the trim and trig and neat, is not always able to bear with fortitude the comparison between the untidy, blowsy, ungirded wife that he left behind him, and the spick-and-span shirt-waisted stenographer that he finds at his office.

Hence, it has become an axiom of domesticity that a woman must dress and take thought of her clothes if she wants to retain her husband's love.

One of the first things that a business woman finds out is that the better she dresses, the better she gets along. Customers modulate their tone to her in strict key to the style of her gown. Office boys, clerks, policemen take one look at her clothes, and turn her down gruffly or speed her on her way with civility, accordingly. Her appearance is the key that unlocks or shuts doors, and the less she apparently needs to have things done for her, the more she gets them.

Woman, Judged by Her Gown, Puts Supreme Effort in Her Clothes

Is it any wonder, then, when men place such a value upon women's clothes, that women, who must please men either as sweethearts, wives or workers, learn to put dress above everything else? It is the logic of the situation, for if men are going to judge woman by her gowns it is up to her to put her best intelligence and her supreme effort into the thing that means success or failure for her.

Therefore, men may talk until their tongues hang out about the idiocy of woman's foolish, unhygienic and expensive clothes, but as long as the girl with the smallest waist is asked oftenest to dance other girls are going to lace; as long as women see that it is always a high-heeled shoe and silk stockings that are permitted to trample over men, no woman is going in voluntarily for brogans and woolen hosiery.

It's for men that women dress. It's men who are to blame for women's extravagance, because men demand an attractive appearance of women, and clothes are an aid to beauty when you have good looks, and a pretty fair substitute for puchritude when you haven't got it.
